THE SIEGE OF VICKSBURGH.

The Yazoo Pass Expedition Still in Front of Fort Pemberton.

Gunboat Reconnoissance of Haines' Bluff.

TWO IMPORTANT EXPEDITIONS UNDER WAY.

CINCINNATI, Tuesday, April 7.

A special dispatch from Helena, dated the 3d inst., says that advices from Gen. QUIMBY's Expedition to the 30th ult., state that no progress had been made in the reduction of Fort Pemberton, at Greenwood.

Our forces were still in front of the enemy, and there had been considerable skirmishing between the pickets on shore. The rebels were improving the time by greatly increasing the strength of their works. They have received and mounted more heavy guns, and are well supplied with ammunition.

The country along the Tallahatchie is occupied by two regiments of Confederate cavalry, and swarms with guerrillas.

One of our Musquito boats captured five rebel raftmen at the mouth of the Coldwater River, and indications of attempts to place torpedoes in the channel have been discovered.

The first reconnoissance of Haines' Bluff by gunboats was made by Admiral PORTER. The object was one of reconnoissance only. They proceeded within range of the rebel batteries, and fired shots over at them, but the shots were not returned.

CAIRO, Tuesday, April 7.

The steamer Gray Eagle, from Memphis, has arrived. From passengers we learn of two important expeditions, the objects of which are not to be made public.

Reports in regard to the Yazoo Pass Expedition are still conflicting. The preponderance of evidence is that it is not abandoned. Last week, while the steamer A. D. Hine was passing down Cold Water, it was fired into by guerrillas. Several deck hands and one engineer were killed. The Captain was mortally wounded.

In retaliation for firing into the gunboat St. Clow, on the Cumberland, Tuesday last, Capt. FITZ, with a gunboat, went to the town of Palmyra on Saturday, and, after giving the inhabitants time to leave, they burned the entire town.

Another skirmish occurred Saturday, near Naucouat. The National pickets, numbering fifteen, were attacked by BLYTHE's Cavalry. The latter were repulsed. Loss unascertained. Our loss was two wounded, and two taken prisoners.

LATER FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

Reported Evacuation of Port Hudson by the Rebels.

The United States steam transport [illegible]ern Queen, Capt. COLLINS, arrived at this p[illegible]vening, from New-Orleans March 29, and Key West on the 1st inst., with passengers, to United States Assistant Quartermaster. She brings about sixty discharged soldiers from Gen. BANKS' Division. Capt. COLLINS reports that while at Fort Phillip, Southwest Pass, his vessel was boarded by the United States boarding officer, who reported having received a telegram from New-Orleans, stating that the rebels had begun to evacuate Port Hudson.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Splendid Condition of the Army—Reviews by Gen. Hooker—The Roads Rapidly Improving—The Rebels Constantly Reinforced.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FROM THE LEFT WING OF THE ARMY, Saturday, April 4, 1863.

During the past week the roads have improved rapidly, and will soon be in fine condition, if the weather continues to remain favorable. Several hours are devoted daily to drilling by the various commands, which are scattered over hill and through dale as far as the eye can reach. It is the universal testimony of all the officers with whom I have conversed, that the army never was in so good fighting trim as now.

Yesterday Gen. HOOKER reviewed the Sixth Army Corps, commanded by Gen. SEDGEWICK. Gens. NEWTON's and BROOKS' divisions were reviewed on an open field not far from headquarters and Gen. HOWE's, on what is known as the "Balls' Farm." This estate is situated near the Rappahannock, below Falmouth, and commands a fine view of the rebel encampments on the crest beyond. The enemy could witness the evolutions of our troops. Gen. HOOKER appeared upon the ground about 1 o'clock, accompanied by his entire staff and a cavalry escort. He was dressed in full military suit, and mounted upon a magnificent white charger. A lady rode by his side. There were also upon the field Gens. SEDGEWICK, SLOCUM, SICKLES, HOWE, BROOKS, PRATT, PATRICK, RUSSELL and NEILL, accompanied by their staffs. The presence of so many Major and Brigadier-Generals gave considerable éclat to the occasion. The division being drawn up, Gen. HOOKER galloped down in the front of the line, saluting the various regimental colors as he passed, and returning in the rear of the regiments. The artillery were inspected in a similar manner, after which the General assumed a stationary position, and the several brigades filed in review before him. After passing him, the Vermont troops obliqued round a muddy spot, to the displeasure of their brigade commander, Col. GRANT, who remarked, "You can make soldiers face the cannon's mouth, but never march through a mud puddle." The review over, Gen. HOOKER, accompanied by Gens. SEDGEWICK, SLOCUM, SICKLES, and others, repaired to Gen. HOWE's headquarters to partake of a repast prepared for them.

Everyone present was struck with the splendid morale of the troops. Robust, active, full of life—a finer body of men were never seen. If I mistake not, the sanitary condition of the Sixth is better than that of any of the other corps comprising the Army of the Potomac. For the past few months it has steadily increased in size, the number of returning convalescents more than balancing the number discharged from sickness. The corps, therefore, comes out of its Winter quarters larger than it was last Fall. Of the divisions, Gen. HOWE's is in the best condition physically—which is to be attributed to the skill and care of the surgeons. The Medical Inspector pronounces the division hospital the best conducted of any of the field hospitals in the lines. I visited it yesterday and was struck with the neat and tidy appearance of the various wards, and the regard for the comfort and ease of the patients displayed in the surroundings. Among other things, I observed on the green in front of the hospital a bower of cedars for the invalids to lounge in on these warm balmy afternoons. The officers in charge of the hospital are: Surgeon D'ESTAING DICKERSON, Thirty-third New-York, Director; Surgeon H. A. ALLEN, Fourth Vermont, Assistant.

The published reports to the effect that the enemy are about abandoning Virginia create considerable amusement here. Instead of falling back the enemy are daily increasing their forces around Fredericksburgh. Intelligence was received yesterday that Gen. LEE is now hurrying forward all his troops in anticipation of an immediate attack from us. J.

DEPARTMENT OF THE CUMBERLAND.

Particulars of the Defeat of Morgan by Gen. Stanley.

The Rebels Driven from Three Separate Positions.

ANOTHER DASHING CAVALRY AFFAIR.

CINCINNATI, Tuesday, April 7.

Dispatches from Murfreesboro give the following account of the fight near Snow Hill:

On the 2d inst. Gen. STANLEY, with two thousand cavalry, and Col. MATTHEWS' infantry brigade, started to capture MORGAN's and WHARTON's Eighth regiment of infantry and cavalry at Snow Hill.

Beyond Auburn they drove in the rebel pickets. The Seventh Pennsylvania cavalry turned the rebel right, while MINTY's and PARMON's cavalry brigade, with NEWELL's battery, moved up in front. The enemy fled.

The enemy's pickets were then encountered west of Liberty, and a considerable force of rebels were posted on the bluffs on the opposite side of Smith's Ford. They resisted and were driven back and formed again on Dry Fork, from whence they were again driven.

The rebels then formed a third and stronger line on Snow Hill. The Second and Fourth Ohio cavalry were sent to the enemy's rear. They charged with sabres in hand and broke the line of the rebels, when the fight ended in the flight of the rebels.

The rebel loss was from fifteen to twenty killed, a number wounded, and sixty prisoners.

Gen. STANLEY also captured thirty horses and mules and a quantity of bacon and wheat, and destroyed considerable forage.

The position of the rebels defeated Gen. STANLEY's intention to surround and capture them. They escaped with their guns.

Our loss was one private of the Seventh Pennsylvania cavalry, and two slightly wounded.

Gen. STANLEY returned to Murfreesboro by way of Lebanon, capturing six prisoners at the latter point.

It is reported that the gunboat Lexington and some other boat shelled the town of Florence, Alabama, on the 2d inst., and drove away a company of rebel cavalry stationed there.

REPORT FROM GEN. ROSECRANS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 7.

The following has been received at the headquarters of the army here:

MURFREESBORO, Monday, April 6.

To Maj.-Gen. Halleck, General-in-Chief, Washington:

Gen. STANLEY has returned from his scout, bringing in some forty or fifty prisoners, and three hundred serviceable horses and mules. He drove MORGAN's cavalry from the Peninsula, whipping them from their stronghold, Snow's Hill, north of Smithville, and but for their precipitate retreat, and the difficult nature of the country, would have had a force in their rear, and captured their artillery and animals. The enemy left quite a number of dead, and fled toward McMinnville, losing many horses, saddles and guns.

W. S. ROSECRANS.

ANOTHER DASHING CAVALRY AFFAIR.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Tuesday, April 7.

Gen. ROBERT B. MITCHELL, with 350 cavalry, went out yesterday on the Lebanon Pike to Green Hill, and dashing into a rebel camp, where there was a large number of conscripts, on the sabre charge, he took 15 prisoners, killed 5, and captured all their arms, horses, equipments, &c. The rebels were composed of parts of MORGAN's and MCCOWN's bands. Among the prisoners are Capt. BRADY, of the Eighteenth (rebel) Tennessee regiment, and a Lieutenant of MORGAN's cavalry. A still-house containing 40 casks of liquor was destroyed. The place had been used as a conscripting rendezvous. One man was wounded on our side. Gen. MITCHELL's command made a march of 55 miles in twelve hours.

REPORTS FROM THE RAPPAHANNOCK.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Tuesday, April 7.

There are indications, but nothing of a definite character, that the enemy on the opposite of the river are in possession of information from some point, unfavorable to them. They are unusually careful to prevent any of their papers from getting into our lines.

THE STORY OF AN ALLEGED REFUGEE.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 7.

No flag of truce crossed the Rappahannock today—consequently we are without advices from Charleston through the Richmond papers. The hotels are digesting the story of an alleged refugee from Charleston, who has had communication with the Government, and sorrowfully assured it that 116,000 troops occupied the city and its fortifications; that two thousand cannon were in position; that Sumter was clad in Palmetto logs, and sheathed outside of these with 4½ inch iron; that the harbor and the river were paved with torpedoes of monstrous quality, and that the channel was barricaded. This refugee, venerable for his white hairs and his family name, predicted failure and disaster in the several Departments in which he has recited his desponding story. In one he was silently voted to be an emissary and a spy, sent to effect a delay of the doom of Charleston, and was audibly encouraged with the request to keep up his spirits for a few days, when he would surely have the happiness of seeing that city an ash-heap.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH.

Capture of the Schooner Expeditious—Capts. Allen and Vernon, of the Forty-seventh New-York, Taken Prisoners.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

PORT ROYAL, Tuesday, March 31, 1863.

The dispatch steamer Mattano arrived this afternoon from Fort Pulaski, bringing information of the capture yesterday morning of the schooner Expeditious in the Savannah River. The vessel was from Nassau, N. P., with a cargo of 340 sacks of salt, and attempted to run past Pulaski up to Savannah. In the darkness she missed the channel and went into Calibogue Sound, where she was discovered at daylight. A detachment of the Forty-eighth Regiment was at once put on board the Mattano and dispatched to secure her, which was soon accomplished. Had the Captain of the prize been a good pilot he could have escaped before the steamer reached him, as it was blowing fresh and fair up the river. This was a novel sort of prize for soldiers to make.

The Mattano also brings a rumor of the capture of Capts. ALLEN and VERNON, of the Forty-seventh Regiment, and three men by the rebels. The party left Fort Pulaski some days since in a small boat, intending to reach their encampment on the Ogeechee Sound by passing through Lazaretto Creek. They have not since been heard of, and the supposition is that they encountered a rebel picket boat in Warsaw Sound. With them were lost the mail for the regiment brought down on the last trip of the Arago, and official dispatches from the headquarters to Lieut.-Col. VAN BRUNT, commanding the post at the Ogeechee.

Here is the last General Order:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH, HILTON HEAD, PORT ROYAL, S. C., March 30, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 28.—It having been unanimously certified to the Major-General Commanding, by the Colonel, Lieut.-Colonel, Major and Surgeon of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Regiment of Pennsylvania Militia, that they consider Capt. DAVID SCHAAD, commanding Company "D" of said regiment, "a very disloyal officer, and a traitor to his country;" and they unanimously recommending, (in which recommendation their Brigade Commander joins,) that Capt. DAVID SCHAAD be summarily dismissed the service, without pay or emoluments;

It is hereby ordered that the said Capt. DAVID SCHAAD, Company "D," One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Regiment Pennsylvania Militia, be dishonorably dismissed the service of the United States, without pay or emoluments, subject to the approval of His Excellency the President of the United States.

By command of Maj.-Gen. D. HUNTER.

IMPORTANT FROM FLORIDA.

THE CITY OF JACKSONVILLE EVACUATED AND DESTROYED—RETURN OF THE NEGRO BRIGADE.

From the New South.

The news from the St. John's River by the latest arrival is important. On the 26th ult., Col. MONTGOMERY, of the Second South Carolina Volunteers, with two companies of his regiment, embarked on the transport General Meigs, Capt. WATKINS, and pushed up the river as far as Orange Grove, where they anchored for the night. On the following day they proceeded to Palatka, where the Meigs ran up to the wharf and landed her troops, who immediately took possession of the town. While lying at the wharf a volley of musketry was fired from the village, and Capt. WATKINS and Judge LATTA, who were conversing together near the pilot-house, narrowly escaped, the bullets whizzing close to them, and lodging in the woodwork all about them. Lieut.-Col. LIBERTY BILLINGS was shot through both hands, and one or two of the negroes were also wounded. Meantime, Col. MONTGOMERY ordered the town to be shelled, while he went beyond it and captured a Lieutenant and 14 men of a rebel company stationed there. The next day the Adams came up with orders for the forces to return, and nothing further was accomplished at Palatka.

At Jacksonville the rebels succeeded in creating some commotion by placing a section of artillery upon a platform car, and running it to the edge of the city, whence they threw a number of shells, without effecting any serious results, however. One shell entered the dwelling of a Union man, passing through the room where himself and wife were sleeping, and penetrated the rocking-chair on which their clothes were piled. One soldier of the Eighth Maine regiment, we learn, was killed, and another was wounded. In retaliation for the conduct of the rebels, Col. RUST, when the order to evacuate was received, burned the town and brought away with him the families of the Union people. Our forces left Jacksonville on the 31st.

The United States Bark Restless in a Storm

SHE IS COMPELLED TO THROW HER BATTERY OVERBOARD.

The United States bark Restless, Acting Master WM. S. BROWN, commanding, from Boston Feb. 28, bound to Port Royal, has come to this port in distress, having experienced a succession of heavy gales since leaving Boston. On the 4th inst., lat. 71° 30', lon. 37° 30', encountered a cyclone, commencing from northeast, which blew with great violence for 48 hours, and during which the vessel labored badly; was compelled to throw the battery, consisting of four long 34s, overboard, to save the vessel. On the 6th inst., on the edge of the Gulf Stream, passed a quantity of hay, lumber, and broken spars, also pieces of bulwarks.

The following is a list of the officers:

WM. R. BROWN, Acting Master, commanding; Morris Degard, Acting Master, Executive Officer; H. Eason, Acting Ensign; Jas. J. Russell, Acting Ensign; Chas. M. Hicks, Acting Ensign; Wm. J. Cushman, Acting Assistant Paymaster; Chas. H. Page, Acting Assistant Surgeon; J. Walter Mackie, Acting Master's Mate; Wm. B. Brown, Acting Master's Mate.

BREAD RIOT IN RICHMOND.

Three Thousand Hungry Women Raging in the Streets.

Government and Private Stores Broken Open.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, April 7.

Col. STEWART, of the Second Indiana Regiment, one of the fourteen United States officers just released by the rebels, and who has just arrived here, makes the following statement:

On Thursday last he saw from his prison window in Richmond a great bread riot, in which about three thousand women were engaged, armed with clubs, guns and stones. They broke open the Government stores and took bread, clothing and whatever else they wanted. The militia were ordered out to check the riot, but failed to do so. JEFF. DAVIS and other high officials then made speeches to the infuriated women, and told them they should have what they needed. They then became calm, and order was once more restored.

All the other released Union officers confirmed this statement.

The Methodist Conference.

GEN. WOOL ON THE WAR—LIST OF APPOINTMENTS.

In pursuance of an invitation extended by the Chairman, (Bishop BAKER,) Gen. WOOL, Judge BETTS, of the United States Court, and Hon. M. F. ODELL, of the Congressional Committee on the Conduct of the War, were present at the proceedings of the New-York East M. E. Conference, at the South Second-street Church, Brooklyn, Eastern District, yesterday.

After the usual routine business had been transacted, loud calls were made for Gen. WOOL, who was reluctantly compelled to make a speech, in the course of which he referred to the letter he had written to Secretary CASS, calling his attention to the importance of taking prompt steps to stifle the rebellion, which was then in an inchoate state. He urged CASS to use his influence with President BUCHANAN, and endeavor to get him to use his power in assisting its accomplishment. In that letter, Gen. WOOL said he predicted certain things which must and would happen, and which had already taken place. He then alluded to the present condition of the war, which he thought hopeful. The Southerners had no plea under heaven for seceding but to perpetuate the institution of Slavery, and to protect the slave-trade. If he had time, he could prove it to them. He would never be contented until the Union was restored. He deprecated the idea of some men to dismember the Union. Where shall we draw the line? It was no matter where or how we drew the line, trouble was sure to follow. The Northwest must have an outlet, and so with the other sections of the country. Some talked about putting New-England out of the Union. ["Amen! Amen!"] He was for keeping the country together, ["Amen,"] and therefore he was opposed to a separation of any kind; he was opposed to all and any lines of demarkation, and wanted nothing but the whole country. [Vehement applause, which lasted some moments, during which Gen. WOOL resumed his seat.]

Hon. M. F. ODELL then made a few patriotic remarks, in which he assured them that success must ultimately crown our undertakings. He was very severe upon the Peace party men, and showed what we had done to convince them, or those who believed we had done nothing, that we had done something.

A Prize.

The prize schooner Sue, of Nassau, N. P., arrived yesterday, Acting Master RICHARD HUSTACE, in charge. She reports that she was 15 miles to the southward and eastward of the Highland Lights on the evening of the 3d inst., when she was hailed by the pilot-boat No. 9 for a pilot, and one came alongside, but on learning that the vessel was a prize, refused to take her into port, saying he got no pay for piloting such vessels. Being unable to get a pilot, the Sue was driven in the late gale 90 miles to sea. On the afternoon of the 6th, managed to get a pilot from No. 1, when to the northward of Barnegat.

THE SUFFERING POOR OF IRELAND.

The Knights of St. Patrick at the Academy of Music.

An Enthusiastic Assemblage—Speeches by Gen. McClellan, Archbishop Hughes, Judge Daly, John McKeon, Richard O'Gorman, Gen. Meagher, and Others.

The meeting at the Academy of Music last night in aid of the suffering poor of Ireland, was an immense success, both in point of numbers and enthusiasm. At 7½ o'clock the entire edifice was filled with beauty and fashion. On the stage were the officers of the Society known as the Knights of St. Patrick; Mayor OPDYKE, who presided over the meeting; His Grace Archbishop HUGHES; Rev. Messrs. O'REILLY, MOONEY, SCHNEIDER, Hon. Judge DALY, Hon. Recorder HOFFMAN, Brig.-Gen. MEAGHER, Very Rev. Dr. STARRS, Vicar-General; Rev. THOMAS QUINN of Rhode Island, Rev. Mr. MORAN of Newark, Mayor KALBFLEISCH of Brooklyn, and several other distinguished gentlemen, both of the lay and clerical orders.

The proceedings were opened by His Honor Mayor OPDYKE assuming the Chair, when the New-York Harmonic Society, who were seated on the stage, sang "Hail to Our Nation," by KELLER. This having been concluded, the orchestra struck up "Hail to the Chief," and Gen. MCCLELLAN and lady entered a private box. The General was received with loud cheers, and having been called upon for a speech, he came to the front of the box and spoke as follows:

SPEECH OF GEN. M'CLELLAN.

MY FRIENDS: I came here to-night as a listener and spectator—not to participate in the proceedings of the evening. I came to hear the ablest and best of the friends and sons of Ireland plead her cause. In doing so, I departed from my usual course, which is to avoid vast assemblies, and I did so because I knew that this one had no party or political purpose, but that you were to assemble for the noblest of all purposes—to manifest charity toward suffering brethren in a distant land. [Loud applause.] I came here simply to evince my sympathy in your cause; for I feel that I have strong and peculiar reasons to feel intense sympathy and interest in all that relates to Ireland and the Irish. [Loud applause.] I sprang myself from a kindred race. I have often seen the loyalty of the Irish to their Government and to their General proved. I have seen the green flag of Erin side by side with our own Stars and Stripes amid the smoke and din of battle. I have witnessed the chivalry and bravery of the Irish race, when a boy, upon the fields of Mexico, and in maturer years I have seen these qualities again displayed on the fields of Maryland and Virginia. [Prolonged applause.] It has often been my sad lot, but pleasant withal, to watch the cheerful, smiling faces of the Irish, when suffering from painful and ghastly wounds. I have always, under all circumstances, found the Irish heart warm and true; and, as I have already said, I feel that I have a peculiar right to sympathize with your cause. It is most unfortunate that there are so many in Ireland who need our sympathy and assistance; but we should, at least, thank God that He has given us the means to extend our hands to them and aid them. It is unfortunate, perhaps, for Ireland, that laws, with the making of which her people had so little to do, and a Government in which they have been so little represented, should have compelled so many of them to leave their native land, and seek refuge in foreign climes; but the loss of Ireland has been the gain of America. [Loud cheering.] It has given us some of the brightest intellects that have adorned our history, countless strong arms which have developed our resources, and soldiers immeasurable who on every field, from those of the revolution to those of the present sad rebellion, have upheld the honor of their adopted country. [Great cheering.] Therefore, I say, we have gained what Ireland has lost. One thing more before I close. Although, as I said before, we have come here to-night for no political purpose, yet no true friend of his country in the present crisis can express altogether the thoughts that will crowd upon his brain. What is it that enables us now to extend our hands in succor to your brethren across the Atlantic? What is it that our fathers worked for, and for which we too have worked and are working now? To establish upon this broad continent one nation, one free government, that might be a refuge for all from foreign lands. I know, then, that I express the sentiments of all who listen to me, when I say that all our energies, all our thoughts, all our means, and, if necessary, the last drop of our blood must be given to uphold that unity, that nationality. [Great cheering.] I do not rise to make a speech, but simply to express my warm and most cordial thanks for the greeting with which I have been honored. I will, therefore, thank you again, and then make way for abler and more eloquent men, who will plead the cause of your country to-night.

[Enthusiastic applause again and again renewed, in the midst of which Gen. MCCLELLAN sat down.]

Gen. MCCLELLAN having concluded his remarks, after a short address from Mayor OPDYKE, WM. F. LYONS, Esq., Secretary of the Knights of St. Patrick, read the address prepared by a committee of that organization, appealing to the generosity of the American people on behalf of Ireland, which was received with great enthusiasm. His Honor the Mayor then introduced His Grace Archbishop HUGHES, whose appearance was the signal for loud and long-continued applause. He spoke as follows:

SPEECH OF ARCHBISHOP HUGHES.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: If I stand up to speak under the honorable introduction of the Mayor of New York, you will anticipate not so much a speech as an apology for the absence of it. It would be very strange, indeed, if all the feelings of my heart were not intensely entwined in sympathy with the purpose and the object of this great meeting. [Applause.] I shall not now enumerate the reasons why they are so, but I suppose that every one can appreciate them. It is but too well known that many of the Irish people are suffering for want of food and raiment, and that fact alone is a substitute for eloquence, if I were master of it. We cannot think of it patiently; you cannot bear it; I cannot bear it. It is a terrible fact that fellow-beings, many of them related to us directly or indirectly, are slowly dying of starvation. I have said that you cannot bear it, and your presence here to-night is a proof of it; human nature cannot bear it—it is too bad. God permits it, no doubt, as he permits many things that we may regret, not reproving him; but under the pressure of this state of things upon every Christian heart, I conceive that eloquence does not now consist in words, but in action. [Loud cheering.] I have given my little mite towards this object, $250; and, as they would say in Wall-street, I felt 250 per cent. lighter of heart as soon as it was given. I will not occupy your time long. I do not stand here to preach a charity sermon. In the pulpit I have done so, and may do so again, for such is my office; but a work like this which you have so generously taken in hand is not to be accomplished by a charity sermon. The work is a great one; it is prompted by generosity, by humanity, and by charity, and extends to all, without distinction of creed or party. [Applause.] Even from the Pagans we learn the maxim, that where humanity suffers, every man who has a stake in that humanity ought to suffer with it—by sympathy at least. Ours is sympathy indeed; but sympathy without help is nothing. You must put your hands to the wheel. You have a noble example in what was done during a former famine in Ireland. There is nothing in history that can compare with the universal uprising of human sympathy and relief for the sufferers upon that occasion. Since the last famine in Ireland, that poor country has been dodging on in her usual way. The things of which I speak now have not come under my own actual observation, but I have every reason, and I am sorrowfully bound to believe in the existence of the distress of which we have heard. I said awhile ago that I would not spoil this undertaking of yours, by talking to you as if I were preaching a charity sermon, and I will not. I merely wish to say a few words to you in a simple way. I may say, however, that when I have spoken upon such occasions, I have never failed to meet a sympathetic response. I have been delighted by the magnificent spirit of charity manifested in this City toward the suffering operatives of Manchester. A suffering man in Manchester is not exactly what a suffering man in Ireland is. The former is surrounded and almost swamped by wealthy capitalists; but the Irish poor, if they were to forget themselves so far as to assert and carry out their will and purpose to help themselves, (which, after all, is the right of the starving man everywhere,) [loud applause.] they would find around them nothing but poverty like their own. Yet I cannot refrain from complimenting and being proud of the people of the City of New-York for the liberal contributions they have made in aid of the English workingmen. They have done honor to themselves; they have heaped coals of fire upon heads that did not understand what the meaning of heat was—heat of that character. I am afraid, ladies and gentlemen, that there is a temptation in the atmosphere which prolongs my observations beyond their intended limit, but I must close. This matter has been nobly taken up by gentlemen of the lay order, and being a clergyman, I have felt some delicacy as to whether I ought to be present; but I could not withhold my approval of their efforts. They are gentlemen of influence and means, and I know that they are not deficient in that eloquence which, coming from them, will stir up every feeling of charity, generosity and humanity in your bosoms. It only remains for me to repeat what I have already said, that I go with the movement heart and hand.

Hon. Judge DALY was the next speaker. He illustrated the present condition of Ireland by comparing it to the regard which Joseph evinced for the sufferers in his own land after he had been raised to power and position in Egypt, and appealed to the audience, both native and Irish born, to act the part of Joseph in extending their charity to the Irish people, who now send to us across the Atlantic a cry for aid.

RICHARD O'GORMAN, Esq., followed in a speech, in which he depicted the wrongs of Ireland in terse and vigorous language, and portrayed the extent of the present famine there, showing how essential it was that immediate relief should be extended the people of that unhappy country.

Hon. JOHN MCKEON was then introduced, and spoke in feeling terms of the miseries which the poor Irish were now suffering from a lack of food. He considered it the duty of Americans to contribute toward alleviating the sufferings of a people who had ever been our warmest friends, and who had done so much toward making our country prosperous beyond any other nation on earth. Let us show, said he, that our sympathy is as bright in war as in peace. If each one would contribute a little, the aggregate would be millions, and we should have the consolation of knowing that we have done our duty in the cause of humanity.

P. J. MEEHAN, Esq., editor of the Irish-American, WM. E. ROBINSON, Esq., and Brig.-Gen. MEAGHER then addressed the assemblage, after which the Harmonic Society sang "Where Liberty dwells is my Country." Hon. HORACE GREELEY was loudly called for, and coming forward, moved a resolution counseling the various Irish societies throughout the country to carry forward the good work so auspiciously commenced to-night. He supported this resolution by a few appropriate remarks, which were well received.

Mr. P. J. MEEHAN announced that BRYAN LAWRENCE, Esq., had contributed $1,000 towards the relief fund, which announcement was received with loud cheers.

A letter was read from Rev. Dr. CUMMINGS, of St. Stephen's Church, stating that indisposition prevented him from attending the meeting, and inclosing $50 as his donation to the cause.

A Committee to solicit subscriptions was appointed for each Ward, after which the meeting adjourned.

TUESDAY, April 7—P. M.

The price of Gold Coin is full 2 ⅌ cent. lower late to-day than yesterday. The Exchange on London for the Cunarder to-morrow closed irregular; first-class Bankers' Bills 167@168 ⅌ cent.; Merchant Bills 164½@166 ⅌ cent. The export demand for Gold is light, and the speculative movement unusually tame to-day. The market for Money is very easy at 6 ⅌ cent. to the Brokers. The conversions of United States Currency into the New Loan of 1882 amount, to-day, to $750.000.

The Stock Exchange, after a fair business in the forenoon, is, with a few exceptions, heavy and rather downward at the close of the Second Board. The Government Securities steady. The shares of the New-York Central are strong and the price advancing. The Hudson shares were also strong at the First Board, but offered at a concession of ½@¾ ⅌ cent. in the afternoon. The speculation in Harlem appears to have been broken by the heavy cash sales of Saturday, and contracts are being closed up at a difference of 8@10 ⅌ cent. from the highest cash price of that day.

At 4 o'clock, the following prices were made, as compared with the quotations last night. Gold Coin was weak, but some of the Railways rather steadier than on the Second Board printed sales. New-York Central continued strong in demand at the advance of 2½ per cent:

Mr. WILLIAM R. SANDS, of SANDS BROTHERS, was yesterday admitted a member of the Stock Exchange Board by unanimous vote.

Having examined the pamphlet prospectus referred to, we feel at liberty to direct attention to the following communication:

"It is proposed to form a Company with a capital of $500,000, for the manufacture of Solar salt at East Saginaw, Mich., under the General law of that State, employing the lime peculiar to that locality, and unequaled in strength and purity by any yet discovered. The large profits heretofore obtained from the manufacture of this staple under less advantageous circumstances than now presented, guarantee success. Capitalists seeking investment are invited to share in this enterprise, where safety and profit are assured. F. W. FELLOWS is the agent, office No. 37 William-street, where the prospectus of the Company may be had, also maps and accurate survey of land can be seen. Refers by permission to M. MORGAN'S SONS, WINSLOW, LANIER & CO., FITZHUGH & JENKINS, FELLOWS & CO., and others."

The proposition is to distribute to the public four-fifths or 8,000 shares of $50 each of the Capital Company, the original owners reserving 2,000 shares. The subscriptions to be called in, 25 ⅌ cent. the first year; 40 ⅌ cent. the second year, and the remainder the third year, by which time the productive capacity of the works will be equal to 7 ⅌ cent. a year over expenses and additional improvements; this rate of dividend to be continued through the the fourth, fifth and sixth years, and then raised to 14 ⅌ cent. for the seventh year, when the improvements will be completed, and the works made equal to a net income of $200,000 a year, or 40 ⅌ cent. per annum on the capital. The process of Salt manufacture is similar to the Syracuse works, under the control of the State of New-York.

The Directors of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincey Railroad have declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 ⅌ cent., (the Government tax is assumed by the Company,) payable on 15th of May; to stockholders of record, on 27th April.

The following is an extract from an interesting letter by the last English mail, viâ Boston, received this morning, from a member of the London Stock Exchange, devoted to the loyal cause of the United States. It corresponds with other letters which we have read in reference to the so-called Confederate Cotton Loan introduced on the other side, and systematically puffed for several mails past in the dispatches to the Press on this side. The writer of this extract will probably have learned by this time that our Government has not so been remiss in looking after the steamers building "for the Emperor of China" as he imagines:

"This so-called Confederate Loan is flung in the face of us who have our sympathies entirely with the North, and we are taunted with the superior talent and credit of the South till I feel inclined to curse the devilish cunning and ingenuity of these slave owners, and swear at the awful slowness and want of practical common sense of the North in any of their attempts to command either credit or respect here for their enormous resources.

The money raised on those Cotton Bonds goes, of course, in great part to pay for the ships building "for the Emperor of China;" everybody here knows that, and knows where, those ships are being built to break your blockade and release this very Cotton, still not an American here, your Minister included raises a little finger to make the necessary declarations, under the Act of Parliament to put our Government in the wrong if they let these ships leave England, but by and by you will threaten us for the results of your own apathy, and make further bad blood between John Bull and Uncle Sam. Why, have you not fitted out a thousand privateers, if necessary, to stop everything three miles off the port of Nassau, if your old slow cruisers cannot do it, and why in the name of practical business have you not ordered three for one in this country of those fast ships which the South are getting here so soon as they pay for them? Will your pride not allow of this? well, then, don't blame us so much. Depend upon it SPENCE or LINDSAY, or MARE & CO., would be as ready to give you their ships for a consideration as they would the rebels. Money is the whole question in all such private matters where the respective Governments do not interfere.

This Confederate Loan is held by many of us to be a disgrace to all concerned in it, and to our Stock Exchange. I am happy to say the recognized American dealers have distinctly refused to deal in it in any way whatever; and what I call the respectable and respected houses of the broker fraternity have taken the same course, and send back any orders sent them from Liverpool or the country markets, with the notice that we do not recognize it in any way. The Jew peeps out here again in his usual colors. The only house who have had the effrontery to put their name on the prospectus belongs to the tribe of Levi, though the name has been christianized to suit, perhaps, the pious scruples of a junior, who is a great pillar of the Puseyite Church. The only other broker firm which openly avows its sympathies for the South, and has been the principal buyer and seller of this precious Slave-bedraggled bond and "promise to pay," is the well-known Quaker copartnery, whose chief member was, in olden times, the friend and companion of WILBERFORCE, I believe, and the Slave-emancipators, par excellence, of the last generation. Here we have Jew and Quaker shaking hands over the commissions to be made out of the Slave-driver's bloody pockets, and, no doubt, each goes home—the one to thank God, and the other to —— the devil, that there are fools enough in this country to be believers in JEFF. DAVIS and his superscription.

For a good, pious, non-respecter of persons, who bring orders, provided they pay cash, commend me to a Quaker, and for the dealing in bonds which, though indirectly, have a clause about the pound of flesh, (black though it be,) commend me, of course, to a Jew."

Another London letter to the same house here, writes as follows of the Confederate Loan:

"I am amazed and ashamed that my countrymen go in so wildly for such iniquity.

Both * * * and * * * (leading dealers in American Securities at the London Stock Exchange) have taken high ground in declining to deal in this Confederate Loan, which I am glad of. They, of course, are throwing business away, but by so doing they do all they can to discourage its introduction, and I think it redounds much to their credit. I am declining all commissions in it, and mean strictly to have no dealings in it. The price is got up chiefly by the Liverpool speculators. I consider it a very illegal proceeding, and quite expect the contractors will yet find much difficulty in getting along."

The business in Breadstuffs during the past two weeks Mr. EDWARD BILL reviews thus: "The fortnight has been characterized by repeated, and in some cases violent fluctuations in the market value of Gold, which has had more or less effect upon the transactions in all descriptions of Breadstuffs. The stock of sound Flour is moderate, and the receipts are light, and consequently there is more firmness on the part of holders than would otherwise be the case. The English markets remaining dull and inactive, and this, together with the uncertainty in the rates of Sterling Exchange, has caused a material falling off in the exports, as will be seen by the tables below. For home use and shipments to other than English ports, there is a fair but not brisk demand. At yesterday's Exchange, with a further decline in Gold, the trade ruled quiet, and buyers again had the advantage. There is so little sound Wheat left, that holders have been able to realize good prices, and as it will be several weeks before any fresh supplies can reach the seaboard, there probably will be no material decline; in the meanwhile quotations for common qualities are quite nominal. Oats are in light supply and wanted. Indian Corn, with a reduced stock, is firmly held, the demand being chiefly from the home trade. The Export Clearances from this port, for the fortnight, foot up, to Great Britain and Ireland, 22,847 bbls. Flour, 151,516 bush. Wheat, 266,138 bush. Corn, and 7,569 bush. Rye to Falmouth for orders; to Havre, 65 bbls. Flour, and 8,480 bush. Wheat; to Portugal, 4,610 bbls. Flour, 91,053 bush. Wheat, 3,661 bush. Rye; to Continental ports, 714 bbls. Flour, 36,840 bush. Wheat, 15,617 bush. Rye; to Gabraltar, 1,516 bbls. Flour; to Brazil, 4,938 bbls. Flour; to Mexico, 3,335 bbls. Flour, 11,171 bush. Corn."

RICE—Was very quiet; prices were unsettled.

SALT—Has been active and somewhat nominal.

SALTPETRE—Is held above the views of buyers, and is active. The Boston Commercial Bulletin, noticing the business of the past month, says: "We have still to report a very dull market. Most of the deliveries noted in our 'comparative statement' were parcels imported by consumers. The month opened with 16½c. to 16¾c. being asked by holders, but buyers not taking freely. The fall in gold caused lower prices to be made, and some sales were reported at 15 cents cash. Since the advance in gold, prices are again unsettled, and our quotations at the close are 15 to 15½ cents cash. The quantity to 'arrive' still continues large compared with last year, and buyers seem disposed, in the present condition of affairs, to operate very cautiously. Our latest Calcutta advices, to Feb 7, 1863, report a moderate but steady business, at prices the same as reported a month ago. Stocks have accommodated these and are now estimated at 2,600 bags. London advices of March 13 report that business had been somewhat interrupted by the recent holidays, but importers were firm and demand full rates, with a firm appearance in market at close. Stocks in England, 8,193 tons, against 6,476 in 1862. We have just heard of the destruction, by the pirate Alabama, of the Star of Peace, with the large amount of 9,098 bags Saltpetre."

SEEDS—Sales here to-day, 475 bags Clover at 8¾c. @9½c. ⅌ ℔., and in Philadelphia, during the week, 3,000 bushels do., at $5 25@$5 75, mainly at $5 62½ ⅌ bushel. Mr. A. CAMERON, in his circular just issued, says: "It has been my custom heretofore to issue an annual review of the Seed Market on the 1st day of March, but owing to the backwardness of the season and continued demand, together with unprecedented fluctuations in the Money Market, I have delayed preparing it until this date. On due examination, however, I find that the variations have been so many and so great, that a summary statement of the exports will suffice, simply stating that Clover Seed has ranged from 9c.@12¾c. ⅌ ℔. during the season, closing to-day (April 1) at 9c.@10c. Flax Seed has ranged from $18@$31 ⅌ tierce, during the season, closing to-day at $31@$32. Timothy Seed has ranged from $2 75@$2 ⅌ 45 ℔s. during the season, closing to-day at $2@$2 50."

SKINS—Have been in good demand, but have been generally held above the views of buyers; hence, the sales, during the week, have been confined to 3,000 ℔s. Central American and Sisal Deer, with 2,600 Payta and 2,000 Mocha Goat, in Salem, to come here, all on private terms.

SUGARS—Sales were confined to 310 hhds., including New-Orleans, at 11c.@12½c., and Cuba, at 9¾c.@10½c. ⅌ ℔. Market rather heavy.

TALLOW—Sales 84,000 ℔s., at 11¾c.@12c. ⅌ ℔. The business of the week, Messrs. KNIGHT & SONS review thus: "Since our last report the market has considerably improved, and may be quoted ½c. higher than last week's prices. The amount offered for sale is small, as there appears to be a disposition to hold for higher rates, but the views of exporters are somewhat below those of holders, therefore transactions are more of a retail nature. The supply of Prime is fair, with a moderate stock on hand of country and City. To-day the market is dull, and really choice lots would only bring 12c., which figure we consider a fair quotation. Soap stock of all kinds is nominal at our quotations. Price this day 1858, 10½c.; 1859, 10¾c.; 1860, 10½c.; 1861, 10c.; and 1862, 8⅞c. ⅌ ℔."

TEAS—Have been held firmly, but have been inactive.

TIN—Has been in limited demand, including Straits, at 49½c.@50c., and Banca at 52c. ⅌ ℔.

TOBACCO—Has been very quiet, sales since our last; having been confined to 64 hhds. Kentucky, at 15c.@26c., and 38 cases Seed Leaf at 20c.@45c. ⅌ ℔.

WHISKY—Sales, 500 bbls., in lots, at 46c.@47c., chiefly at 46½c.@46¾c. ⅌ gallon.

WOOL—Domestic Wool has been inactive, and prices have been somewhat unsettled during the week. Foreign has been in more demand, chiefly on speculation, and sales have been reported of 450,000 ℔s., including 300,000 ℔s. washed Mediterranean, at 27c.@35c. ⅌ ℔. A public sale of about 400,000 ℔s. California Wool is announced for Wednesday, April 15. The Boston Commercial Bulletin, of this morning, says: "The principal movement at present is in army Wools to fill Government contracts for clothing. Those already issued and others which are pending embrace in the aggregate a very large quantity; and as the grades adapted to the manufacture of kerseys, flannels and blankets are getting rather scarce, we note considerable activity and firmness in these descriptions. Sales of the week amount to some 150,000 ℔s. domestic fleece and pulled at a range of 85c.@95c., including small lots of Billing's and Rochester extra pulled at the latter figure; 15,000 ℔s. super pulled at 90c.; 40 bales mixed at 85c.; 10,000 ℔s. Illinois fleece at 80c., and 15,000 do. low California at 56c. Coarse grades domestic fleece are now generally held at 80c.@85c.; fine do. and superior pulled at 85c.@90c.; extra and selected lots at 90c.@95c. and upwards. The market for foreign wools is rather unsettled, and transactions comprise 3@400 bales at a wide range of prices." In Philadelphia, a very limited business has been transacted in domestic fleece at 80c.@95c. ⅌ ℔. In Providence, sales have been made during the week of 10,760 ℔s. Domestic Fleece at 90c. ⅌ ℔.

FREIGHTS—Continue quiet, at about former rates. For Liverpool—15,000 bushels Grain, in bulk and bags, at 5d.@5½d.; 25,000 bushels Wheat, for shipment in a foreign vessel late in May, at 11d. ⅌ bushel; 500 bbls. Pork, (by steamer,) at 5s. ⅌ bbl., and 650 pkgs. Bacon and Lard, by a sailing vessel, at 22s. 6d. ⅌ ton. For London—1,500 bbls. Flour, at 1s. 10½d.; 500 bbls. Pork, at 4s. ⅌ bbl. For Glasgow—350 tcs. Lard, at 22s. 6d.@32s. 6d., and ten tons Seed, at 35s. ⅌ ton.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

We have no definite news yet from Charleston—nothing in fact, but hints. We have the announcement from Washington that it is officially known there that our gunboats and iron clads left Port Royal on Wednesday last, and would probably reach their destination on Thursday evening. Up to 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, however, nothing further was known of their movements. A dispatch from the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac leads to the inference that they have struck a blow somewhere. It is believed, from the actions of the rebels on the other side of the Rappahannock, that they are in possession of information unfavorable to their cause—unusual care being taken to prevent any of their papers from getting within our lines. The mystery will no doubt be cleared up in a day or two.

By an arrival from Port Royal we have advices to the 4th inst., though nothing regarding the movement of our forces. The troops recently operating in Florida had returned, Jacksonville having again been evacuated, and this time destroyed—the Union families having previously been removed. A schooner, loaded with salt for the rebels, had been captured while attempting to run up to Savannah. She was from Nassau, of course.

Very little news has reached us from the Mississippi in the past two or three days—the only movement of importance announced being a reconnoissance of Haines' Bluff on the Yazoo by the gunboats under Admiral Porter, which proceeded within range of the rebel batteries and threw in a few shots, but obtained no reply. Advices from the Yazoo Pass Expedition to the 30th ult. leave our forces still in front of Fort Pemberton at Greenwood, with considerable skirmishing between the pickets on shore, but with no immediate prospect of a reduction of the rebel work. In fact, the rebels were daily increasing its strength, and adding to its armament.

The United States steam transport Eastern Queen arrived at this port last evening, from New-Orleans on the 29th ult. While at the Southwest Pass she was boarded by an officer, who reported having just received a telegram from New-Orleans, announcing that the rebels had commenced the evacuation of Port Hudson.

The defeat of the rebel Gen. Morgan at Snow Hill, on the 2d inst., by Gen. Stanley, appears to have been as decided as his defeat by Col. Hall, a few days ago, near Milton, Tenn. Stanley had 2,000 cavalry and an infantry brigade, and the intention was, if possible, to capture Morgan's whole command, but the nature of the ground would not permit it. The rebels were encountered in three positions—the last and strongest one at Snow Hill, where, their rear having been gained by a portion of our cavalry, they fled precipitately toward McMinnville, leaving behind fifteen to twenty killed, a number wounded, and sixty prisoners, beside thirty horses and mules and a quantity of subsistence. Our loss was only one man killed and two wounded.

Still another dashing cavalry affair is reported in Gen. Rosecrans' department. Gen. Mitchel started out from Nashville on Monday, with 350 men, and surprised a rebel camp at Green Hill, on the Lebanon Pike—killed and wounded several, took a number of prisoners, and captured all their arms, equipments, &c. Only one man was wounded on our side.

Another tribulation has overtaken Jeff. Davis, in the shape of Bread Riots in the rebel capital. Col. Stewart, of the Second Indiana Regiment, just released from prison in Richmond, reports that on Thursday last he saw from his prison window a great bread riot, in which some three thousand women were engaged, armed with guns, clubs and stones. Government and private stores were broken open, and provisions, clothing, &c., seized. The military failed to check the riot, and it was not until Jeff. Davis himself, with other high officials, assured the women they should have whatever they needed, that they became pacified. Other released National officers confirm the statement of Col. Stewart.

The pirate Alabama is reported to have been spoken by a British vessel on the 23d inst., in lat. 32° 30′, long. 73° 32′.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, a large number of bills were reported favorably—among them the one relative to the exemption of household furniture from seizure, which was ordered to a third reading; the one authorizing the Corporation of New-York to construct a pier in front of the Battery, and to lease the same; and the one dividing the Seventh Ward, Brooklyn. The bill to incorporate the Dry Goods Early Closing Association was passed; also, the bill appropriating half a million dollars for the defence of New-York Harbor; also, the bill establishing a Bureau of Military Statistics. A resolution was introduced, and laid over, requesting the Governor to call the attention of the President to the excess of three-years' men furnished by New-York, and to ask him to take this into consideration in making the draft. The Gold Speculation and National Banking bills were then debated until the recess. The Gold bill was ordered to a third reading without amendment. During the evening session, the bill allowing the Brooklyn Central Railroad to use dummy engines was referred to the Brooklyn Senators to report complete.

In the Assembly, the bill fixing the number of Notaries, and conferring additional authority upon them, was passed. A number of other bills were passed, of no particular importance. The Senate bill relative to evidence was lost. The Chenango Canal Extension bill was ordered to a third reading during the evening session.

GENERAL NEWS.

An immense meeting was convened last night at the Academy of Music, to take measures to aid the starving poor of Ireland. Mayor Opdyke presided, and addresses were made by Archbishop Hughes, Brig.-Gen. Meagher, Richard O'Gorman, Hon. Judge Daly and others. The affair was an entire success.

A large meeting of Peace Democrats was held last evening at the Cooper Institute. The principal speaker was Fernando Wood, who was followed by Hon. J. S. Carlile, of Virginia, Hon. J. W. Williams, of South Carolina, and Judge McCunn. A letter was received from Senator Wall of New-Jersey.

The boilers and engine which were on board the prize steamer Princess Royal, and which were handed over to the Navy Department, at their appraised value, have been put together at the Philadelphia Navy-yard, and the size and description of a vessel for which they are fitted ascertained. A gunboat suitable for them is to be commenced at once, for which the necessary preparations are being made. The boilers are designed for a vessel of light draft.

The monitor Lehigh, built at Chester, is finished, and was expected to arrive at the Philadelphia Navy-Yard yesterday, to receive her stores. She has her armament on board, and will sail as soon as the stores are supplied.

Of the $120,000 of city fractional notes, authorized by the Albany Common Council, $117,500 has been issued. Of this amount $63,200 has been redeemed, leaving $54,300 in the hands of the public. Of the amount redeemed, $53,700 has been destroyed, and $9,500 remains on hand.

Brig.-Gen. Turchin, who was some time ago retired from active service for alleged ill conduct in Northern Alabama, has been ordered to report to Gen. Rosecrans for duty.

The Syracuse Standard, of Monday, announces the arrival in that city of Mrs. Long, daughter of the late Gen. Sumner, and wife of Col. Long, of the rebel army.

Owing to the non-attendance of jurors, the Court of Oyer and Terminer was obliged yesterday to adjourn over till Thursday morning next.

The late Robert T. Haws having died intestate, Messrs. John H. Williams, of Queens County, James H. Pinckney and William Allen, of this City, have been appointed administrators of his estate by the Surrogate, with the usual powers and duties in such cases.

The price of Gold Coin fell 2 ℔ cent. yesterday, closing 150½. Stocks closed dull in the Afternoon, with one or two prominent exception. Money easy to the Brokers at 6 ℔ cent. The conversions of United States Currency into the 6 ℔ cent. Stock of 1882 continued very active.

Breadstuffs, Provisions and Groceries were generally in limited request yesterday. Prices of Flour, Wheat, Corn and Hog Products favored buyers. A very light business was transacted in Cotton at reduced figures. Hay was in fair demand, at full rates. A moderate inquiry prevailed for Hops, Clover Seed, Tallow and Whisky. Oils, Fruits, Metals, Naval Stores and Foreign Liquors were inactive. The public sales of Dry Goods were very well attended, and, on the whole, more successful than those of last week. The freight market was tame, though rates were unaltered.

The Live Stock markets are well supplied with animals this week, there being a gain on all kinds when compared with last week. There is a total of 4,811 beeves; 391 cows; 1,230 calves; 6,502 sheep, and 17,276 hogs. The Lenten season now being at an end, the demand for meats is greater, but the increased supply more than meets the wants of buyers. Eggs and shad are beginning to take their places as regular articles of diet, and tend to diminish the demand for meat. Beeves sold remarkably well at Forty fourth-street Monday morning, with a moderate demand in the afternoon, and a slow trade to close up, Tuesday. The 4,163 yarded, were all sold, but at a decline of ½c. on the closing sales. The quality of the cattle varied from very good bullocks, which brought 13c. ℔ lb. net weight, to genuine scallawags, a few of which were sold as low as 8½c.@9c. Most of the cattle brought 10c. @11c., the average being 10½c. The slight advance on the large numbers sold in the early part of the market was just balanced by the few closing lots at the decline noted....Cows and calves are abundant and cheaper....Sheep are also plenty and rather lower than one week ago, though there was an advance on Monday. Good sheep are now worth 9½c., and some common lots have been sold as low as 8½c....Live hogs are in excess of the demand during the present warm, rainy weather. Corn-fed hogs are worth 5c.@5½c., and 4¾c.@5c. for still-fed.

The Connecticut Election—Its Grand Significance.

The victory of the war party in Connecticut is a stunning blow to the Copperheads. It was the first election in which the animal gave fight in its own veritable shape. Here in New-York, and all through the West, the peace policy, as a distinct issue, was carefully avoided. The whole canvass was conducted under other semblances,—such as questions of sustaining the suspension of habeas corpus, of upholding the President's Proclamation, of approving the management of the war—all of which were calculated to deceive and distract the people. Successes thus treacherously gained were really of no account as a test of the real spirit of the people touching the vital point of abandoning the war. But the peace-plotters insisted that it was the peace policy itself which the people had sustained, and grew so bold as to resolve to make that the plain out-and-out issue in the Spring elections. But in New-Hampshire and Rhode Island the leaders, after casting about a little, found it would hardly answer. So far as they well could, throughout the canvass, they kept the peace question in the background. They were beaten, but, not having fully shown themselves, pretended the blow was not really aimed at them. In Connecticut, on the other hand, they came squarely into public view at the very start, and fought unflinchingly to the end. There have been few, if any, political canvasses of late years in which the issues between the contending parties were more veraciously set forth. There can be no caviling about the result. It is literally a settler.

The only reasonable doubt as to how this election would turn out, came from the fact that twenty or thirty thousand of the loyal voters of the State, who are for the war nearly to a man—as peace men don't go to war—were virtually disfranchised by absence from the State in the National armies. This was an immense proportion out of the entire ninety thousand vote of the State. There was, indeed, some reason to apprehend that the immense efforts of the Peace Democracy, remaining behind, to stir up all of the old party prejudices, all of the personal fears, and every selfish and mean motive that can affect human action, might secure a majority in their favor at the ballot-box. There was the greater concern, because now, for the first time, the great Conscription Act, and all the other severe war measures whose passage signalized the closing days of Congress, were brought before the people, in all their grim, practical aspect. The peace advocates never tired in their efforts to work, through these, upon the nerves of the people. Nothing could be proof against these appeals to all the baser elements of human nature but purest patriotism. Did the Connecticut people have this?—the people at home, we mean, for of course there could be no doubt about the sterling stuff of the soldiers in the field. It was an ordeal which disquieted good men everywhere, lest it might not be faithfully borne. Never since Connecticut was a State has one of its elections excited such intense concern through this land. And now that she has come out of it all so nobly, there is not a loyal heart, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, that does not have a sense of relief.

Had Connecticut succumbed to the pressure brought to bear upon her, in favor of peace and separation, it would not only have blasted her good name among the States, but would have had a most pernicious effect in weakening the moral power of the Government. There is no State in the Union whose people are more intelligent than those of Connecticut—none where a popular verdict ordinarily has a greater moral weight. The peace and war issues in this canvass had been so boldly and clearly made, and the mind of the people had been so thoroughly roused to the momentous character of their decision, that, in this case, the result must needs be accepted as a signal indication of the Northern spirit and purpose. It must have been difficult for the unconditional supporters of the Union to have continued their high faith in the final triumph of their cause, after the desertion of it by a State of so high character; for there would be no reason why the causes which could produce such a result in Connecticut, might not gain like predominance in the majority of the States, which, of course, would be fatal. The Government, after such a popular judgment, could feel assured of nothing. It would itself know not how soon it might be deserted by the majority of the North; nor could anybody else say. A general sense of insecurity would attach to it; and all the prestige of strength which contributes so much to make authority respected, would quickly disappear. The Government, after such a repudiation in the very spot where it had a right to expect the staunchest devotion, would find its hopes sink, and its energies relax, in spite of itself.

But as this election has turned out, renewed confidence and vigor must, in the same manner, come from it. Save in the Border States, where staunch support of the war is unquestionable, there are now to be no more elections for six months. Within that time the Spring and Summer campaigns are to be performed. If they are accomplished as they may and should be, they will settle the fate of the rebellion. The administrators of the Government will have nobody to blame but themselves if this is not realized. In the Connecticut election they have an earnest of the people's cordial support of their war policy. We believe they will see well to it that this policy, thus sustained, will be carried through quickly, successfully, and gloriously.

Party Intrigues with Foreign Ministers.

The practice of carrying on private negotiations with foreign Ministers, not on behalf of the country, but on behalf of a party, to which the leaders of the Copperhead faction have been resorting, is one which, taken in connection with the secession theory, which these worthies all hold, is so full of danger in the future, that we think it ought not to be passed over without some attempt to crush it. There is, we are aware, an act of Congress of Washington's time which makes it punishable as a misdemeanor, but we need hardly say that it would be next to impossible to get a conviction under it, owing to the difficulty of procuring evidence. When two or three "diffusers of political information," or "upholders of the Constitution," march to Lord Lyons' hotel, and hold consultations with him as to the best manner of bringing foreign influence to bear upon the internal affairs of the United States, we may be sure that outsiders or reporters are not likely to be present at the interview. None of the intriguers are at all likely to turn State's evidence, and an Ambassador cannot be produced in Court. So, as far as the law goes in its present condition, these people have their unfortunate country at their mercy.

How unfortunate the country is which is infested by such characters, may be estimated by a glance at their doctrines, both as they preach them, and as Lord Lyons reveals them. They all, in the first place, believe in the right of any State of the American Union to secede at pleasure—the very theory which the nation rose in arms to refute two years ago, and which the vast majority of the people, as well as all careful observers all over the world, hold to be fatal to the national existence. This is a necessary consequence of their assertion that the National Government has no right to coerce a State. Without the power of coercion, a denial of the right of secession is a mockery. If any one deny the right to secede, and at the same time denies the right to coerce, the only weapon which he leaves in the hands of the central power for the preservation of its own existence, is moral suasion. Supposing this to fail—and it is sure to fail in nine cases out of ten, if not in all—the split becomes an accomplished and a legal fact. We do not remember a single case in history except, perhaps, one in Switzerland, where a political revolution was prevented by the arguments addressed by one of the parties to the other. And the reason is obvious. The pros and cons of the matter—the expediency of revolting or separating—are nearly always discussed for years before the revolt actually breaks out. Every phase of the question is examined, and every contingency discussed by the malcontents long before they proceed to overt acts. In fact, this is a condition of success, which no rebels are likely to neglect, for without it the support and union of the community cannot be secured. And this is exactly the course things have taken in the South. When the last moment arrives, the established Government is, according to the "diffusers'" theory, to be called upon for its reasons why it should not relinquish its authority. But it has none to give which seceders have not heard a thousand times over, and if it had, they would be addressed to an adversary made obdurate by pride, passion and ambition. So the result naturally and invariably is, that they bid it politely good morning, and proceed to set up for themselves. If its power ends here, as the Seymour and Toucey school of politicians have sought to persuade us, the right of secession is just as valid as if it were formally set down in the Constitution. The only difference between the Northern Secessionists and the Southern Secessionists is, in fact, that the former allow the nation the privilege of protesting against its own destruction, which the latter do not.

Now, if we allow this theory of the nature of the Union to prevail at the present crisis, it will of course stand good, whether the South succeeds in achieving its independence or not. It will control the relations of the States which will remain after the South is gone, just as much as it now controls the relations of North and South. And it is certain that we shall, like all other communities, be exposed, as long as men are men, to internal differences on all sorts of subjects. We shall always have a party in power anxious to keep it, and a party out of power anxious to get it. And we shall, if we are great and powerful, as it is our duty as well as interest to seek to be, always have foreign nations looking on with pleasure at whatever divides and weakens us, whatever promises to lessen our influence, or turn the success of the political principles on which we have based our existence. And, what is surer than any of these things, we shall always have Woods, Vallandighams and Brookses—to whom the triumph of their party will always be the first, and very often the only object. As the world now is, also, and still more as it is likely to be in the future, complete national isolation is well-nigh impossible. That what concerns one nation also concerns every other, is no longer a philosophic theory; it is almost a principle of public law. There is hardly ever an international difference, or an internal convulsion, in which foreign Powers cannot produce plausible reasons for interfering. We see illustrations of this every day, in Italy, in Turkey, in Greece, in Poland, and in our own quarrel at the present moment.

From this, as long as the meddlers invariably find themselves face to face with the men charged by the nation to represent it, with the public force at their backs, and responsible before the world for its honor, there is nothing to fear. But, if, at every such crisis, the agents of foreign Powers are able to open up separate and secret negotiations with partisan leaders, and make secret arrangements with them for the division and confusion of the people and for the embarrassment and frustration of the public negotiations, carried on with the recognized authorities, there is no use in denying it, our ruin is a mere question of time. This is not an exaggerated statement of a mere possibility. No nation has ever long survived such practices, and a republic expires sooner under them than any other form of Government. It would be a mockery to put its perpetrators, especially at such a crisis as this, in jail, unless the national loathing followed them into their cells. Imprisonment, without the condemnation of the public, is either martyrdom or simply a trifling personal inconvenience. And if the American public can look on at such practices, without expressing their detestation of them, we may rely upon it that it is a sure sign of early—and the world will add, well-merited—ruin.

Defences of Charleston.

We have no doubt that Charleston, its harbor, and its approaches, are very formidably defended. The city has been threatened for two years. During all that time the inhabitants and the military authorities have been able to look down the harbor, and behold hostile cannon mounted on first-class ships, whose commanders would have eagerly seized any chance to run in and salute the town. For eighteen months a large army has been encamped within a short sail of the port, with the avowed design of attacking the city as soon as possible. The Northern public have ceaselessly urged the attack on Charleston, and there has been greater anxiety to see the flag raised there than in any other part of rebeldom.

Jeff. Davis has sent his best engineers to construct its defences. They have had an unlimited supply of slaves to do their bidding, and have employed, probably, not less than ten thousand pairs of hard black hands on the works. Cannon made in England and in Dixie have been furnished in abundance. In short, whatever could be done by military art, by iron plates and iron rails, by stone forts and earth forts, by gunboats, by torpedoes, by slaves and by conscripts, to make Charleston impregnable, has been done. It will be a very great thing to capture Charleston.

But intelligent refugees, deserters and Hottentots, rather overtax our powers of belief in reference to Charleston's defences. The Bostonians, we notice, have just got hold of a Yankee deserter from the rebel army, who tells a tale, which, if it reaches the ears of Dupont and Hunter, may well make them pause. He does not confirm the Philadelphia story that Fort Sumter is iron-plated; but he declares that it mounts 205 guns, all in working order—that Fort Moultrie mounts 96 heavy guns—that on Morris Island there are seven heavy Armstrong guns—that from the latter point to the lighthouse are heavy batteries, mounting 25 guns of enormous calibre—that near the lighthouse is a bomb-proof mortar battery, built of palmetto logs and railroad iron, which mounts 17 mortars and as many more heavy guns, and that at the Magnolia House there are 100 guns. All this is but a tithe of the big guns in Charleston harbor. There is the floating battery with 10 guns—there is a raft of 20 gunboats, all strongly linked together, each mounting two 56 and one 32-pounder rifle guns—there is an iron cable a mile long, to which are attached torpedoes and a network of rafts. And so the Boston deserter goes on with his tale till it almost makes one's hair stand on end.

It suffers, however, alongside of the story which, we learn by telegraph from Washington, has been communicated to the Government by a "venerable, white-haired" refugee. He asserts that Sumter is clad in Palmetto logs and sheathed with 4½-inch iron; that the channel is barricaded, and the harbor paved with monstrous torpedoes—that 2,000 cannon are in positon, and that 116,000 troops hold the city. The patriarchal graybeard is despondent when he thinks of our bad prospects—unlike the Boston deserter, who is jubilant, and avers of his own knowledge that even the rebels at Charleston are persuaded our forces will capture the city. Not having had the opportunities for observation that have been enjoyed by these latest immigrants from Charleston, we are not prepared to refute their assertions in detail; but if both of them, like so many of their predecessors, should turn out liars and fools, if not knaves and traitors, it would not be half so wonderful as their tales.

Academy of Music.

The first performance of a new opera, under any circumstances, is an event of great musical importence, but when, in addition to the novelty of the work itself, we are called upon to assist at the introduction of a new composer, the occasion is doubly interesting. Although Italy is the Mother of the Arts, it must be confessed that in music she has not lately had many additions to her family. Verdi—her favorite child—has for fifteen years supplied the operatic stage with works of general interest, but even he has wearied of the labor, and now writes but seldom. Of Mercadante, Pacini, and other platitudinous old moderns, it is useless to speak. Their works, like certain kinds of Italian wine, are good enough on the spot where they are produced, but they are much too feeble to bear transportation, and hence are comparatively unknown.

It is characteristic of Mr. Maretzek's watchfulness, that he has discovered and been the means of making us acquainted with the only composer who is young enough in years and vigorous enough in talent to have a future before him. Petrella, the composer of "Ione, or the Last Days of Pompeii," produced here last evening for the first time in America, is a Neapolitan, of about thirty-two years of age. His career began half a dozen years ago, when he brought out an opera called "Marco Visconti" with success. This was followed, a couple of years later, by a comic opera called "I Precautionii," which was also received with favor. Petrella's third and latest work, "Ione," was produced two years ago, and has been played with great success at the principal Italian theatres ever since. It has not yet found its way to London or Paris.

The plot of "Ione" is derived mainly from Bulwer's novel The Last Days of Pompeii. Owing, perhaps, to the dramatic strength of this work, the libretto is somewhat more coherent and effective than such productions are apt to be. The situations are well arranged, although not always pleasing, and the grouping of the ensembles is devised with due regard to logical contrast and stage effect. As every one will purchase the book for consultation, (surreptitiously or openly,) it is unnecessary to say more on the subject.

Before speaking broadly and briefly of the obvious characteristics of the work, we may mention that it is divided into four acts, and that there is but one finale (that to the third act) where the maestro combines all his forces. How readily he can handle them is amply demonstrated in this fine number. It is bold, massive and melodious, and wrought with a tenacity of purpose and recurrence of idea that we seldom find in Italian music. With a decidedly popular vein of melody, and a naturalness that frequently leads him to the borders of absolute simplicity, the composer, here and elsewhere contrives to pique the taste with odd rhythms and curious figures. He seems in a word to have a distinct purpose in all that he does, pursuing it with a frankness that is charming, and avoiding, as some German writers do, all the suave generalities that lie in his way, and are so irresistibly tempting to Verdi. The grand finale, to which we have referred, the trio finale of the first, and the duetto finale of the second act, display a high degree of constructive talent, and a musical roundness of form which is as refreshing as it is rare. To this must be added the fact that Signor Petrella writes well for the voice; and, although full of affectations, despises none of the ordinary means of producing vehement effects, such as unisons, thirds, &c. Stepping from the stage to the orchestra, we find the best use made of material there, and occasionally such startling freshness of subject and vigor of handling, that little is left to be desired. The preponderance of brass instruments is perhaps a defect, as it is surely an irritation, but the greater part of the orchestration is clear, brilliant and suggestive.

The impression created by the work, apart from general saliencies of melody, is a favorable one to the capacity of the author. His style lacks the fluency of the present school of Italian music; but, as a substitute, it possesses a quaint and pleasing originality of its own, which will, undoubtedly, improve on acquaintance. There is not, perhaps, the same amount of inspiration that we find in the best of Verdi's works; but the ideas are treated with unusual skill, and elaborated with the knowledge of a thorough musician. That Sig. Petrella is this admits of no doubt. The treatment of the orchestra in several of the numbers, notably the slow movement of the soprano cavatina in the first act, the whole of the third act, and the end of the opera, leaves no doubt on this subject. There are portions of the work, indeed, that have not been excelled by any Italian composer.

The performance on Monday evening in all leading respects was excellent. We have seldom heard Mme. Medori to greater advantage. She was in admirable voice, and acted with more than her usual grace and power. Signor Mazzoleni was simply superb in all his rôle, singing and playing with a degree of spirit that could not be excelled without destroying the merit of the performance. Mlle. Sulzer, Signors Biachi and Bellini, were thoroughly good. We lack space to dwell on the special excellencies of the various artists; a brief mention of their success must suffice. The orchestra, under the able direction of Signor Nuno, was efficient, but the chorus was neither steady nor strong. New scenery and costumes have been prepared for the opera, and it is by all odds the best mounted work we have had for many years. It was received with much applause; the principal artists being called out after each act, and receiving a double recall after the finale to the third act. The opera will be repeated to-night.

Arrival of the Indians in this City.

If paint and feathers, wampum and war-hoops, tomahawks and terrible fighters are sufficient to form an attraction, New-York certainly has one now. The Indian chiefs who have been resident in Washington for the past few weeks, conferring with the President and arranging matters pertaining to the interests of their respective tribes, came on to New-York last night, and are to hold a grand "pow-wow" with all who please to go and see them at the Museum to-day. Hitherto, we have had exhibitions of a few poor red men, picked up at random and of no particular standing or ethnological importance; but, in this case, the best men of the wildest Indian tribes extant come to New-York in all the savage grandeur of their untamed wildness. Chingachgook and Uncas were nothing in comparison. These men are the roamers of the remotest valleys of the Rocky Mountains and include the fierce Camanche and the formidable Arrapahoe. One of them is known as the "Yellow Buffalo," another as the "Lone Wolf," a third as the "Lean Bear," and so on throughout a series of odd zoological appellations. Barnum, it appears, has had to lay in for them an immense stock of raw beef, coffee, bread, red ochre, feathers and oil, they having never yet descended to the degradation of taking their dinner at a table d'hôte, and using anything so absurd as a napkin. Apart from their interest as real unsophisticated Indians, are the facts which should invest them with extrinsic interest to an equal amount, that they come to New-York to see what sort of a thing civilization is, and to cultivate friendship with our citizens. By all means let them be treated courteously and kindly, so that when they leave for the Far West they may give a good account of New-York hospitality and good taste. They will doubtless attract throngs to the Museum.

Correction—The New Paper in Brooklyn.

The Evening Post, Commercial Advertiser and other newspapers of this and adjacent cities having published that Mr. Joseph Howard, Jr., of the New-York Times, is to have the editorial management of a loyal paper about to be started in Brooklyn, Mr. Howard desires us to say that the statement has no foundation in fact, and he will thank the newspapers who have unwittingly made the error to correct it.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

Washington, Tuesday, April 7.

MILITARY ORDERS.

Maj.-Gen. Heintzelman has issued orders directing that the garrisons of the fortifications around Washington shall be regularly and carefully drilled in artillery practice.

Gen. Heintzelman has also issued the following order:

1. All persons in this Department duly sentenced by General Court-martial "to hard labor on the public works," will be delivered to the Provost-Marshal of the District of Columbia, with an official copy of the order confirming the sentence, besides descriptive list and clothing account, if an enlisted man.
2. The Provost-Marshal of said District will keep such prisoners in close custody, and send them under guard, together with the above-mentioned papers, to Fort Delaware, on Wednesday of each week.
3. The Quartermaster's Department will furnish the necessary transportation to carry out this order.

A DEATH SENTENCE AND COMMUTATION.

James Snowdon Pleasants, of Montgomery County, Md., for "relieving the enemy with victuals, and knowingly harboring and protecting them," was sentenced to be hanged, by a Court-martial at Poolsville, Md., of which Col. Wm. Wort Virgin, of the Twenty-third regiment Maine Volunteers, was President. The finding of the Court was returned, with this indorsement: March 25, 1863.

The sentence of death in this case is hereby commuted to imprisonment during the war, in one of the military prisons to be designated by the Secretary of War. A. LINCOLN.

In compliance with the order of the President, Fort Delaware was designated as the place in which James Snowdon Pleasants shall be confined.

THE CASE OF CAPT. JACKSON.

The action of Gen. McClellan, remitting the sentence in the case of Capt. Robert Jackson, Thirty-sixth New-York Volunteers, Oct. 24, is approved by the President, who directs that the order be carried into effect.

Thomas Duffert, Co. D, 1st U. S. Artillery.

DECEASED REBEL PRISONERS.

The Medical Department statistics show the number of rebel prisoners who have died in Union hospitals since the commencement of the war, to be over five thousand, instead of two thousand, as previously reported.

FURLOUGHS.

Seven or eight hundred soldiers came up last night from Aquia Creek on furlough. Gen. Hooker's wise treatment of the rank and file in this regard is producing the happiest effects throughout the army.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, Tuesday, April 7.

REVENUE DECISIONS.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that whenever distillate is removed and the quantity shall have been reported to the Collector of the District to which the removal is made, and a certificate thereof given by said Collector, and transmitted to the Collector of the District from which the removal is made, the bond required by a former decision shall be canceled.

TREASURY DECISION.

The following decision has been made by the Secretary of the Treasury, arising upon appeals by importers from decisions of Collectors on certain articles entered at the ports of Boston, New-York, &c.:

Benzole or benzone, as it most clearly resembles spirits turpentine, is subject to the same duty, namely, 15 cents a gallon.

The exaction of $6 per ton on old iron boilers is overruled, for one reason among several others, that, to constitute an importation within the true meaning of the law, the arrival must be voluntary with the interest to import, which was not so in this case.

Tanned calf skins were properly assessed 30 per centum, the act of July last imposing an additional duty of five per centum on tanned leather of all descriptions.

The exaction of ten per centum discriminating duty on sundry merchandise imported in Spanish bottoms is affirmed, Spain having no reciprocal treaty with the United States for the exemption of such duties.

Common blue printed Indian chintz was properly assessed 40 per centum ad valorem; vellum cloth, 30 per cent. ad valorem; muslin delaines and goods of a similar description, 2 cents a square yard and 30 per cent. ad valorem. Certain importers having made entry before the act of the 1st of August, 1862, went into effect, but were unable to complete it by causes beyond their control, the goods must be considered subject to the rate of duty existing on the 31st of July last.

COLLECTION OF ABANDONED PROPERTY.

Wm. P. Mellon, of Ohio, has been appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury chief agent under the law of the last Congress providing for the collection of abandoned property, and the prevention of frauds in the insurrectionary districts.

FOREIGN POSTAGE.

The Post-office Department has just issued an order to Postmasters directing them from and after the 1st of May to collect in specie or its equivalent, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails dispatched to this country from Great Britain, Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen or Belgium. The order at present applies only to these mails. On out-going letters the existing regulations remain unchanged. Under the existing postal arrangements postages collected on foreign letters must be accounted for to the foreign Governments in specie or its equivalent, and hence this order, the authorization of Congress.

INDIAN TREATY.

The Indian Bureau has entered into a treaty of friendship with the representatives of the Kioways, Camanches and Apaches, by which they are to receive annually $25,000 worth of agricultural implements, &c., and agree to locate themselves remote from the line of emigrant travel. The delegation of Utes now here express a friendly disposition, and doubtless a treaty will be made with that tribe during the next Summer. These Indian visitors will return to their homes this week.

NAVAL.

Capt. A. H. Kelly has been ordered to ordnance duty at Baltimore.

Commander Colvocoresses has been detached from the storeship Supply, and ordered to the command of the sloop-of-war Saratoga. Acting Master McRitchie has been ordered to the command of the Supply.

Paymaster Murray has been ordered to the Roanoke.

THE REMOVAL OF JUDGES.

Some of the Judges of the Territories are preparing to test before the United States Court of Claims the question whether the President has the power to remove such officers at pleasure. Judge Cradlebaugh, whose case is fully made up, and which is included with the others, continued to act on the Supreme Court bench of Utah for eighteen months after President Buchanan appointed his successor. Judge Cradlebaugh's associates, however, acknowledge him to the exclusion of the latter.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

The Approaching Close of the Session—The Legislation Still on Hand—The Broadway Railroad.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, April 7, 1863.

The drawing near of the one hundredth day—or, more forcibly, the day on which the pay stops—gives to the proceedings of the Legislature a certain feverishness, which is supposed to be the precursor of the end of all things earthly. Those members who have not been as successful as some others in getting through their bills are now anxious, and plead for help. The everlasting claim bills, more faithfully looked after than those of any other description, rise up one after another, with dates old and new—some of them so old that one wonders how the claimants could have waited so long without saying a word, and others so new that one wonders at the sharpness evinced by the claimants in coming for their pay. Bills of a doubtful character with little jokers in them—that you can't tell under which cup they are—dodge about, watching for a moment favorable for getting through, while nobody is looking. Bills neither good nor bad, but well enough, yet with no inherent strength—bills, unluckily for them, that nobody owns—lag behind to take their small and decreasing chances. Bills of no general and very little local importance, about which there has been a great fight on a small scale, admit action the moment the squabble is over. Bills with a hook in them for drawing money from the State Treasury, are held in abeyance until their disinterested supporters can make their corners and get their commissions.

But, looming up like a huge thing with an ugly shadow, is the Broadway Railroad bill of GEORGE LAW & Co. It has lingered in the Senate nearly or quite three weeks. That it will issue from that chamber and make its appearance in the popular branch within the next few days, is now predicted with a confidence which, though not exactly sublime, is yet courageous. Its presence is awaited with a variety of expectations and purposes. It would be safe to say, that there exists no great amount of kindly feeling toward GEORGE LAW or his almost numberless associates, yet I conclude that even GEORGE LAW would be preferred to almost any other man in the same place; for there is something about him and his reputed manner of doing things, about the reasons and arguments he makes use of, and the abundance thereof, which, if they do not make him a decided favorite, at least cause him to be regarded as an object of interest. Judging from the confidence of the engineers of the bill, one would be disposed to think that Mr. LAW knows his ground, and he probably does.

Of the variety of purposes entertained toward the bill in the House, is that of substituting other corporators for those now in it, so that neither Mr. LAW nor the best informed stageman would be able to discover the measure of advantage the bill, if passed, would be to him. The more comprehensive scheme for substituting as many names as the number of votes necessary to pass the bill is ingenious, if not the squarest thing that could be done, while few will be disposed to deny the strength or character of the motive thus furnished.

The expectation was that the Select Committee having the Broadway Railroad bill in charge would report to-day, but for some unexplained reason, the Committee made no sign.

A large delegation of leading merchants, Broadway property holders and others, headed by Mr. STUART, were on the ground to-day, to oppose the pending Law-Stage bill. Their presence is considered significant, and as not calculated to improve the chill under which the bill has for some time been laboring.

In the House, the Staten Island Ferry bill, on motion of Mr. FARAR, was placed forward so as to be acted on at an early day. The Cross Town Railroad bill was also placed forward.

The thunders of cannon in the neighborhood of the Capitol to-day proclaimed the Union victory in Connecticut. The Democrats, who had been felicitating themselves on another Seymour victory, bore reverse with fortitude. I am compelled to think that no tears were shed in the Executive Chamber, since the result pretty effectually disposes of the Woodses, the Brookses, and the rest, to cut clear from whom has of late been the special purpose of the Regency here.

The Case of Mr. Callicot.

A CARD FROM MR. THURLOW WEED.

To the Editor of the Evening Journal:

Having been in favor of an organization of the Assembly different from that which was effected, the appearance of my name in the Atlas and Argus upon a $1,200 draft, without explanation, exposes me to an imputation of inconsistency.

When it became apparent that neither party in the Assembly was strong enough to elect a Speaker, I persistently urged a compromise, which should place either Hon. Mr. TRIMMER, of Monroe, or Hon. Mr. DEPEW, of Westchester, in the Chair.

After some ten days had been consumed in unavailing trials to elect a Speaker, a friend called upon me and requested an advance of $1,200 on the draft referred to. Desiring the money before Bank hours, I took the draft to the State Bank, where, after adding my indorsement, as is usual, when a drawer is unknown, the money was obtained.

This is the extent of my connection with that operation.

THURLOW WEED.

KANSAS CITY, Tuesday, April 7.

Maj. RANSOM, of the Sixth Kansas, has just returned from a highly successful scout. Thirty-four guerrillas were killed, fifteen camps broken up, and nearly all the camp equipage, arms, horses, &c., captured, twenty-seven houses and places of resort burned, two leaders hung (the latter were concerned in the robbery of the steamer Gaty) and a large amount of powder and other munitions of war, destroyed. Only one of his men were wounded. He will return to the field in a day or two.

The Harbor Defence Commission.

The Harbor Defence Commission met at 3 o'clock P. M., yesterday, the President (Mayor OPDYKE,) in the Chair. A communication from Gen. McCLELLAN was read, expressing his willingness to appear before the Commission and submit his views as to the best means of protecting the harbor. A communication was also received from Commodore E. A. STEVENS, submitting a plan for defending the harbor and proposing to sell his famous battery for about half its cost. The proposition was regarded as a very important one, and deserving of prompt attention; the communication was therefore referred to the Committee on Water Defences, with instructions to give Mr. STEVENS a hearing and report as soon as practicable upon the merits of both his suggestions and the offer of the sale of the battery. A communication from J. MORRISON HUNTER was read on the subject of sub-marine defence. Afterward, Mr. WILLIAM SEWELL submitted a communication and charts explaining a plan for blockading the harbor against the entrance of a hostile fleet. Plans were also submitted by Messrs. EDWARD S. RENWICK and S. H. DUNBIN. The Commission adjourned to 3 o'clock P. M. on next Tuesday. The Committee on Water Defences will meet at 2 o'clock P. M., to-morrow, to consider Mr. STEVENS' communication.

Fire in One Hundred and Eighty-sixth-street.

A WOMAN AND TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.

About 2½ o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in a stable in One Hundred and Eighty-sixth-street, near the King's Bridge road, owned and occupied by JAMES KENNY. The building adjoining, owned by Messrs. DUKE & SNOWDEN, also caught fire, and was entirely consumed. The loss will amount to about $3,000. Mrs. WHITE and two children named McDONALD, all occupants of the last-named house, were burned to death. The bodies were removed yesterday afternoon to the Station-house, where an inquest will be held by Coroner RANNEY. The origin of the fire is at present unknown.

The Atlantic Cable.

The subscriptions to the capital stock of the Atlantic Telegraph Company now exceed fifty thousand pounds sterling, among the bankers and leading merchants of this City, and additional subscriptions are being received daily. The amount already subscribed in this City and in London insures the success of the great enterprise next year beyond all reasonable doubt.

THE $10,000 GOLD ROBBERY IN WILLIAM-STREET—ARREST OF THE THIEF.—It will be remembered that about three weeks ago, the firm of WESTON, DORTIC & Co., bankers, of No. 19 William-street, lost the sum of $10,000, through the dishonesty of their clerk, JOSEPH COX, Jr. The affair happened about the 17th of March last. The gold was intrusted to Cox by the firm to convey to their bank, instead of which he took it to the nearest railroad station, and with it made his escape. A large reward was offered, and since that time the police have been constantly on the watch to secure the fugitive. Two or three days ago, Cox was arrested in Albany, and the most of the gold recovered. Yesterday he was brought to this City, and taken before Justice CONNOLLY, at the Tombs, where he had a preliminary examination. In answer to the question what he had to say as to his guilt, he said: "I have nothing to say; they know that I did it, and there is no use in saying anything." He was therefore fully committed for trial.

HAVE THEIR HEADS EXAMINED.—The papers say "There are a precious lot of rogues in Albany, trying to cheat our City, by obtaining railway grants worth millions, for little or nothing." Then why not have their heads examined, and their true characters exposed to public view, and their fraudulent acts revoked? It is the mission of PHRENOLOGY to point out "who is who," and it will mark the knave or the fool. In the language of Nathan, it will speak in italics, "Thou art the man." Our Legislatures want "weeding," and Phrenology is the means by which the tares may be separated from the wheat. Who is the patriot, and who the robber and the traitor? Messrs. FOWLER & WELLS, No. 308 Broadway, have had considerable experience in this interesting science. See the Phrenological Journal for April, only 10 cents.

Chloasma, or Moth Patches.

Blemishes on the face, called Moth, are very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, as the discolored spots on the skin show more strongly on blondes than on brunettes, but they contribute greatly in marring the beauty on either, and anything that will remove Moth Patches without injuring the skin in texture or color, would no doubt be considered a great achievement in medical science. Dr. B. C. PERRY, No. 49 Bond-st., having devoted his whole time and attention to Diseases of the Skin, will guarantee to remove Moth Patches, Freckles and other discolorations from the face without injury to either texture or color of the skin. His success in this, as in other branches of his specialty—Diseases of the Scalp and Loss of Hair—will warrant him in guaranteeing a Cure in every case. Dr. B. C. PERRY,

IN MEMORIAM.

The subject of our brief sketch, JOHN LAIDLAW, of Brooklyn, N. Y., passed from our midst, to his own chosen home in Heaven, on Wednesday, April 1, inst. Mr. Laidlaw was one among the precious few whose life, having been spent with an earnest desire and determined purpose to do the will of God, makes it meet that we should pay this last sad tribute to his memory, and hold up for imitation, by those who succeed him, his noble Christian qualities. He was born in Scotland in 1792. In 1795 his father, a man of exalted Christian character and cultivated mind, for political reasons, left his native land and came to this country to settle, locating in what is now the upper part of the City of New-York. He was soon after prostrated by a severe and lingering illness, from which he died, leaving his children fatherless. But the good seed which had fallen from his lips and life had found a lodgment, and his son John, when about the age of 19, left New-York for the place of his nativity, for the purpose of prosecuting a course of study preparatory to the Christian ministry. His mother parted from him with tears and many misgivings, but committing him to the care of an All-wise Providence, bid him God-speed and success in this holy undertaking.

During his stay in Scotland he sojourned with his warm friend and cousin, William Mills, Lord Provost of Glasgow, and after traveling extensively, he returned to New-York, having relinquished the intention of becoming an ambassador of Christ.

Shortly after his return, he entered the office of the old and highly respected firm of Lenox & Maitland, with whom he continued for many years, ever possessing the confidence and warm personal regard of the members of this worthy firm. During this time, firm friendships sprung up, which were as lasting as pleasant, with a number of those whose names have been an honor and a pride in the commercial history of New-York. At the age of 25, he married Miss Catharine Lefferts, of Brooklyn, this family being one of the oldest in that city. Having already made good progress in an active business career, the late John Jacob Astor, who had taken much interest in him, proposed to him a business arrangement for the purchase and sale of furs, intrusting to him large sums of money, and large discretionary powers. The breaking out of the war of 1812 and the international difficulties which followed, interfered with the full completion of this project, which promised to repay handsome pecuniary profits. Subsequently to this he was extensively engaged in the New-Orleans trade, and, in connection with his brother, Peter Laidlaw, of that city, built up a very large business.

The first vessel that was ever sent direct from New-York to Natchez, Miss., freighted with merchandise, was dispatched by Mr. Laidlaw. He continued in the foreign and domestic shipping trade for many years, and afterward entered into mercantile pursuits, in which he was actively engaged until the time of his last illness. On the 8th of January last he was stricken down with disease, which medical skill was unable to overcome. During a long life of active business, amidst all the changes and vicissitudes of commercial life, the temptations of society at home and abroad, the fashionable allurements which beguile the heart of the young, no stain or blemish rests upon his spotless character. Of strict integrity, and strong adherence to truth in word and action, with a pure heart and firm religious purpose, in all his business relations he could be truly called an honest man, "the noblest work of God." In his social relations he was a kind father, a warm and devoted friend, and in his religious character one who sought in heart and life to follow faithfully in the footsteps of his Redeemer. Taking the Bible as the rule and guide of his faith and practice, he sought, daily, help from above to assist him in the fulfillment of all its commands. His last illness was unattended with much pain; gently he seemed to be borne in the arms of his Saviour to the end—his last conscious act was that of prayer. Having committed his soul to God, he sunk to sleep, and passed away from the scenes of earth to the glorious realities of the life eternal without a struggle or a groan. He died in the full hope of a blissful immortality, and the sweet anticipation of a gladsome reunion with those whom he loved, who had gone before in the heavenly world. M.

Well known throughout Delaware County, N. Y.

CROTON, Dec. 5, 1859.

Messrs. SETH W. FOWLE & Co.

GENTLEMEN: This certifies that my wife has used Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry for diseases of the lungs, with the most satisfactory results. About six years since she was attacked with a difficulty of the lungs and stomach, spitting of blood, &c., accompanied by great soreness, and was thought by all to be in a dangerous condition. She was under the care of a skillful physician for more than a year, and afterward tried many of the most popular cough remedies, but she received no permanent relief until Wistar's Balsam was used, a few bottles of which restored her to her usual health.

I would add that this Balsam has been used by other members of my family, and I can truly say that I know of no other cough remedy in which I have so much confidence. I would recommend WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY to all in need of a safe and reliable cure for coughs, colds or any other diseases of the throat and lungs.

DEAFNESS

NOISES IN THE HEAD,

Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,

CATARRH CURED

BY

DR. VON EISENBERG.

From the Journal of Commerce.

EXCITING NEWS FOR THE DEAF.—An instrument called Dr. Von Eisenberg's Air Passage Expander and Regulator, a gigantic machine, weighing nearly five hundred pounds, about five feet in height, a most wonderful apparatus for restoring sight and hearing, has just arrived for Dr. Von Eisenberg, the celebrated Oculist and Aurist, and will be on exhibition at the Doctor's office, No. 816 Broadway, for a few days previous to its use. The instrument is constructed decidedly on the most scientific principles. To give a detailed description would require a greater space than we can now spare. Our Oculist and Aurist seems to do everything in the line of his profession on a gigantic scale. The new instrument for restoring hearing to the deaf and sight to the blind is so constructed that it cannot fail to open the most obstructed air passages. His new consulting rooms, No. 816 Broadway, are correspondingly magnificent, and his practice as Aurist and Oculist large and eminently successful.

From the New-York Evening Express, Feb. 14, 1863.

SENSATION AMONG THE DEAF.—The unrivaled skill of Dr. Von Eisenberg, the far-famed Oculist and Aurist, of No. 816 Broadway, has made quite a sensation among the Deaf and Blind by his wonderful cures, which attract the Deaf, Blind and those suffering from Chronic Catarrh, from all parts of the Union to his office. The number of his certificates of really wonderful cures swells daily. For the benefit of sufferers, we submit the following, which requires no comment:

NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR,

No. 13 Livingston-st., Brooklyn.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

NO. 188 MERCER-ST., NEW-YORK.

J. E. VON EISENBERG, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. No one can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful. After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasure of using so necessary a sense—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 6, 1862.

DR. VON EISENBERG—Dear Sir: Before taking leave of you, after your most successful operation on my ear, allow me to express my sincere thanks that, by your scientific surgical performance, I am enabled to hear distinctly, and enjoy a pleasure of which I have long been deprived—over a year. May you be rewarded by being enabled to perform many similar, to benefit other sufferers, and to your own emolument.

Allow me to present my kindest regards, and assure you of my grateful remembrance. Respectfully,

A. McDONALD REYNOLDS,

Captain Marines, United States.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

READ

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

FINANCIAL.

AGENCY OF THE NATIONAL (FIVE-TWENTY YEAR) LOAN.

OFFICE OF LIVERMORE, CLEWS & CO., }
No. 34 Wall-st., New-York. }

We take this means of answering the numerous inquiries made of us respecting the United States Five-Twenty Loan, for which we act as agents.

Said Bonds bear six per cent. interest, payable semi-annually, in gold, on the first of May and the first of November.

Have twenty years to run, but being redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after five years, are designated Five-Twenties.

Are issued both in Coupon and Registered Bonds; the former in denominations of 50's, 100's, 500's, 1,000's; the latter in 50's, 100's, 500's, 1,000's, 5,000's and 10,000's.

The Coupon Bonds have coupons attached for twenty years, and are payable transferable to bearer.

The Registered are issued in the name of the purchaser, (whose name and residence are recorded on the books of the Treasury Department at Washington,) and are only transferable by signature, or power of Attorney, before an authorized Government official. The interest is collected in the same manner at the Sub-Treasury nearest the owner's residence.

Both principal and interest are payable in gold, as provided by act of Congress.

Are, (in common with all Government Bonds,) free from taxation by city, town, county or State; and the income derived therefrom is subject only to one-half of the United States tax levied upon incomes derived from other sources.

The privilege of conversion at par will cease on the 1st of July, 1863.

These Bonds are supplied by us at par and accrued interest in currency—interest commencing to the purchaser upon deposit of the money. Hence, the first coupon falling due, being stamped with the date of the issue of the Bond, will be fractional, instead of three per cent., like the succeeding ones.

We shall shortly be prepared to deliver all the various denominations upon application.

The engravers and printers have been unable to furnish blank bonds to the extent required, but every effort is being made to meet the demand, and it is expected that with the increased force now employed upon them, there will be less delay hereafter.

Orders, by mail or otherwise, accompanied by draft on New-York, or current funds, will be promptly responded to. LIVERMORE, CLEWS & CO., Bankers.

OWNERS OF STEAM VESSELS ARE INVITED to send to the Quartermaster-General's Office tenders for their charter or sale.

Senders should contain descriptions of the vessels, their dimensions, enrolled or registered tonnage, actual carrying capacity, material, whether coppered, whether side-wheel or propellers, whether iron or copper fastened, size and power of engines and boilers; and should state the price at which they are offered, for long or short charter, with the estimated value of the vessel in case of loss, or in case the Government should prefer to purchase instead of chartering.

Owners of steam vessels already in the service of the Quartermaster's Department are requested to make known to the Department any reduction in their present rates which they may be willing to grant, and also the price at which they will be willing to sell them.

All such tenders should be addressed to the Quartermaster-General of the United States at Washington, and should be indorsed,

"Proposals for charter or sale of steamers."

When received they will be considered, and the Department will endeavor to reduce the heavy expense attending army transportation, upon the ocean and tide-waters, by substituting, wherever it can do so, cheaper vessels of equal capacity for those now employed.

In order to extend her sphere of usefulness, she has taken a large house, regardless of expense, and fitted it up as a lying-in hospital, where the most perfect confidence is observed, and all the comforts of a sick room are received. CAUTION TO LADIES.

Madame RESTELL, Female Physician, No. 162 Chambers-street, deems it her duty to caution ladies against impostors, who appropriate her advertisements, word for word, merely substituting some ignorant and wholly irresponsible person as "Madame."

These persons have spurious "Female Monthly Pills" and other poisonous compounds to deprive the unwary or the easily duped, as well of their means as of their health.

That ladies may avoid these impositions, Madame Restell feels called upon to give this caution.

SURE CURE—BY DR. POWERS, SUCCESSfully consulted with Dr. WARD, No. 12 Laight-st. Conducted on the plan of the Hospital des Veneriens, Paris, where those afflicted with any form of private disease can receive prompt treatment, without risk or exposure, viz.: Syphilis, gonorrhœa, gleet, strictures, ulcers, tumors, cancers, secondary and constitutional syphilis, diseases of the kidneys, &c., &c. Thirty years of extensive practice, exclusively devoted to the treatment of those complaints enable us to effect cures in cases where others of less experience have failed. Dr. Powers' Essence of Life restores the vigor of youth in four weeks. This marvelous agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions—physical disqualifications, impediments to marriage, thereby speedily cured. The men to consult, Drs. Ward and Powers, the champions and kings of venereal diseases, possessing the most certain, speedy and only effectual remedies in the world, guarantee a perfect cure, or no charge, in from one to three days. Established in 1840. N. B.—Those who have used their preventives are never without. Send for a circular. To Ladies.—Dr. Powers' Periodical Drops are a safe and certain remedy for monthly irregularities. The above remedies sent by mail. The afflicted should read their circular. Postage free, on receipt of a stamp. Cures warranted.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 12 Laight-st., near Canal, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and expense than any one can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much-neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks. Permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance, failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to DR. WARD, No. 12 Laight-st., the only place. Call, send or write.

MADAME RESTELL, FEMALE PHYSICIAN, can be consulted, as usual, at No. 162 Chambers-st., or by letter, and medicine sent by mail. Her FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS are the only medicine married or single ladies can rely upon with safety and certainty. Price $1 a box. Sold at No. 162 Chambers-st., No. 127½ Liberty-st. and No. 403 Hudson-st., New-York. Can also be obtained at No. 214 Grand-st., Williamsburgh, and No. 175 Fulton-st., Brooklyn, or by mail. All other "Female Monthly Pills" are counterfeit.

N. B.—Ladies who desire to avail themselves of Madame RESTELL'S valuable, certain and safe mode of removing obstructions, suppressions, &c., &c., from whatever cause, without the use of medicine or instruments, can do so at one interview.

DR. COBBETT, MEMBER OF THE N. Y University, (Medical College,) and Royal College of Surgeons, London, has removed from No. 19 Duane-st. to his present very convenient suite of offices at No. 22 Centre-st., between Chambers and Reade sts., with a private entrance at No. 6 City Hall-place, where he can be consulted with the most honorable confidence on all diseases affecting the urinary organs; thirty years in his present specialty, (three of which have been at the Hospitals of this City,) enable him to guarantee a cure in every case undertaken, or make no charge. Strictures of the urethra, impotency, seminal weaknesses, &c., treated on the most scientific principles. N. B.—As a proof of Dr. C.'s qualifications, he would call special attention to his Diplomas, which can be seen in his office.

THE VIGOR OF YOUTH IS RESTORED by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE OR INVIGORATING ELIXIR, and Dr. Powers Radical Pills or Physical Regenerator. Young man! Are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease resulting from secret habits? MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, has just published the 160th edition of the valuable book, entitled "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION," strictly intended for those whose health or circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family. Price $1. Sold at his office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York; or can be sent by mail, free of postage to any part of the United States and Canada, by inclos[illegible] addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City. [illegible] by H. RICHARDSON, at No. 1 Vesey-st., (Astor House,) and No. 18 Ann-st.: FEDERHEN & CO., 13 Court-st., Boston.

MAD. DESPARD'S FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS are the only medicine married or single ladies can depend on with safety and certainty. Can be sent by mail to any part of the United States and Canadas. N. B.—Ladies who desire to avail themselves of Madame DESPARD'S valuable, certain and safe mode of removing obstructions, suppressions, &c., &c., without the use of medicine, can do so at one interview. SOMETHING FOR EVERY LADY.—DR. WARD'S Great Female Benefactor or Golden Regulating Pills. Infallible in correcting, regulating and removing all obstructions, from whatever cause, designed for purely legitimate purposes—to restore the menstrual fluid—and they will never disappoint the anxious patient. Office, No. 12 Laight-st., where Dr. WARD can be consulted, confidentially, day and evening.

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP RESTORES the vigor of youth in four days. Restores manhood to the most shattered system. No. 3 Division-st., New-York, the only place. Beware of bogus Dr. Hunters. The City is full of knaves, up to every trick to rob Dr. HUNTER of his great reputation as a skillful and reliable physician. He has no other office but No. 3 Division-st. Established in 1834.

SULPHUR AND VAPOR BATHS—ESTABlished in 1820.—The only genuine baths in the United States, at No 1 Carroll-place, Bleecker-st., corner of Laurens, for cure of rheumatism, mercurial affections, &c. Given daily by Dr. A. L. TIMOLAT & CO.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has, for thirty years, confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but possesses the peculiarily valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb, unless his remedy is used. That is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians, in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great, that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it; and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 15 three-cent stamps, 300 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

COPPERHEADS IN COUNCIL.

Resolutions Denunciatory of the Administration and its Policy.

Speeches of Fernando Wood, Mr. Carlile, and Others.

Wood's Principles and Plans, his Hopes and Fears, his Wrath and Impotence.

The large hall of the Cooper Institute was densely packed by an audience last evening, who assembled, according to the printed call, to express their opposition to the Conscript Act, the war for the negro, and to the Administration, and to exhibit their favor of the reunion of the States, of the Constitution, and of the rights of the poor. The meeting was highly enthusiastic, and the sentiments, as uttered by the speakers, seemed to be fully and unreservedly indorsed. Amidst the vast concourse, one—and only one—of the gentler sex was observed. Upon the platform were seated several persons who formerly held responsible positions under the State and Municipal Governments, also numerous other individuals of much less note. A band of music was in attendance, which interspersed the proceedings from time to time with patriotic and popular airs.

Previous to the organization of the meeting, printed handbills, entitled "Song of the Loyal League," "Loyal Resolutions," "Fight for the Nigger," &c., the purport of which seemed to be a burlesque on the actions of the Loyal Union League, were extensively scattered among the audience. The meeting was called to order by Mr. BENJAMIN RAY, and presided over by Hon. WILLIAM N. CHAUNCEY. A long list of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries was read by Mr. STEPHEN P. RUSSELL, and accepted by acclamation; when, Dr. BRADFORD read resolutions expressing opposition to the policy of the Administration, demanding a change of measures, denouncing official interference with the rights of citizens, and congratulatory upon the secession of prominent members of the Democratic party from that ancient organization, which were passed by acclamation; after which, Ex-Mayor WOOD was introduced.

SPEECH OF FERNANDO WOOD.

Mr. WOOD, after the vociferous applause had subsided, spoke as follows:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: The public man—[confusion, and a voice, "Order, G—d d—n you"]—the public man or man who fails to meet the responsibilities of this crisis, is unfit for public duty. [Applause, and a voice, "That's so."] I care not whether the failure comes from timidity or from treachery—in either case he is guilty of infidelity to the public interests. These are no times for hesitation. These are no times for failure to meet the condition of the country as it exists. These are no times for a resort to the base dictates of noncommittalism, or to avoid the responsibilities of the occasion. The country is in a revolution—aye, in two revolutions—a revolution at the South, prosecuted by the sword, and a revolution at the North prosecuted by legislative and executive usurpation. [Applause, and a voice, "That's so."] The latter is more insidious, more destructive, more to be feared by the people than the former. [Applause.] The South wages war against the Government by open, manly, defiant action. The other revolution at the North, under an absolute Government, wages war, first by exciting and intoxicating the public mind by appeals to patriotism, and then, when the public mind has committed itself fully and entirely to one cause—that of reunion—it is subverted and used for another purpose, unconstitutional, inhuman, and destructive of the Government under which we live. [Applause.] And it is, my friends, this latter effort to revolutionize our Government and destroy our institutions, that we, in my judgment, are met to-night to resist. [Applause.] And, my friends, we resist an immense power. No party, no potentate, no Administration ever has had for its support a combination of such powerful interests as this. In ordinary times, the same interests, the same elements of society concentrated in behalf of any Administration, would be sufficient to sustain that Administration under all circumstances, and at all times. Now, what are these elements which sustain the interests which this Administration has succeeded in combining in its support? Listen to me for a moment, my friends, while I give them to you in detail. The Administration, first, have the whole banking interest of the country at their command. At the breaking out of the war two years ago, they effected a loan here for $150,000,000, in three installments of $50,000,000 each. The whole country was aroused to sustain the Administration—in what was believed to be an effort to sustain the Government against the rebellion. Our banks went into it. This movement entirely absorbed the whole banking capital of the country. Then, following up this absorption of the whole banking capital of the country, withdrawing it from its legitimate function of trade, then we find the Secretary of the Treasury appealing to Congress to pass a law to entirely ignore and abolish the State banking institutions, placing them entirely under contribution to the Federal Government. We have in the City of New-York a banking capital of about $70,000,000, and these figures I procured to-day in official quarters—the entire bank capital of the City of New-York is $70,000,000, and the banks of the City of New-York hold to-day $75,000,000 of Government securities, and are pledged to loan the Government $75,000,000 in addition. Thus we find that the Government have laid under contribution, and have rendered directly amenable to them, the entire banking interest of the country. Thus it is, my friends, that the banks—a great power in this community—a great power in North America—thus the banks, first, because their whole existence is lain at the feet of this Administration, (because when this Administration goes down, they go down;) thus the banks, from fear of future and further encroachments upon those interests, are made directly instrumental in sustaining this war, because they are compelled to sustain this Administration. But this is not all. That is element number one, pledged and bound hand and foot to sustain the Administration in this aggressive war policy as now conducted—compelled from motives of self-interest, from motives of fear. Secondly, the whole railroad interest of the country is in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war. The railroads never carried as much freight—never carried as many passengers. The receipts of all kinds, of every road in the country, for the last two years, have been greater than for any five years previous since their existence. And as to the great central railroads of Maryland, Pennsylvania and New-York—the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, the New-York and Erie and the New-York Central—their receipts have been stupendous arising from the war. The war closed the Mississippi River and the tributary waters, and closing the Mississippi River closed the great channel which carried the immense products of the West down to the Southern markets. These products were forced across to the Eastern markets, and the immense cost of freight went into the treasury of these railroads. When the war ceases and the Union is restored, and the Mississippi River is opened, the receipts of these railroads—these immense and powerful roads—will fall off fifty per cent. Now, my friends, have not these roads an interest in the vigorous prosecution of the war? You will find in the leagues and public meetings that are called to sustain the Administration in the war—you will find your Bank Presidents from one cause, and your Railroad Presidents and Directors from another cause. [Applause, and a Voice—"Sammy Sloan."] All these interests, though acting from opposite impulses and opposite interests, have all converged to the same point—in favor of the patriotic and disinterested support of the Government. [Applause, and a voice, "That's d—n good."] Well, my friends, there is another interest that is exceedingly patriotic, New-England. [Groans, hisses, cat-calls, and a voice, "Hang 'em."] New-England, that before the commencement of this war, subsisting, as she does entirely upon her manufactures—she had her best customers in the South, notwithstanding her politics, notwithstanding her hypocritical professions of hatred of the institution of Slavery. New-England has been supported for a hundred years by the institution of Slavery, [applause,] and she held slaves herself until it ceased to be profitable, and when she could make no more money out of slave labor, she turned philanthropic and set her negroes free. [Applause.] Now, since the war broke out the Southern custom quit. She finds now a profitable substitute in getting contracts from the Government, and in supplying the arms and receiving immense disbursements of the public money. [Applause.] And so long as New-England can participate in the dollar, so long as she can participate in the profligate expenditure of the public money, by the hundreds and hundreds of millions, just so long will New-England be patriotic, and go for a vigorous prosecution of the war. [Applause.] Well, my friends, that is another of the interests that go for the war. There is, in this commercial community, as there is in every commercial community, a large class called the debtor-class. Our American character is peculiar. We are mercurial, enterprising, ambitious, overreaching. A man makes a hundred dollars and he invests it, and a hundred on credit, for the purpose of doubling it. We are always in debt. New-York, Boston, Philadelphia, indeed all the great cities now in the Free States, are laden down with debt. This debtor class see that by a continuation of the war there must be a continuation of the public expenditure. [Applause.] And by a continuation of the public expenditure the Government must increase its debt, by the expansion of its credit, because it has no receipts scarcely; none not derived from credit; credit by means of a funded debt, or credit by means of the issue of legal tender notes. Now the dissemination of these hundreds and thousands of millions of dollars produces an artificial plentifulness of money, it enhances the prices of commodities, and as the Government credit expands the value of the Government credit lessens, and that is what makes the difference between Government gold and Government currency. An artificial stimulant is given to trade, and the result is that a man who is in debt lives upon this credit, because the Government, like himself, is in debt, and he hopes, Micawber-like, that in the general inflation something will turn up to enable him to pay his debts. My friends, this is an immense element in our midst. I was talking with a man the other day who said "I am for the war because it makes money plenty." Says I, "No, credit is plenty," says he. "I know that, but I hope to get out before the crash comes." Now this patriotic element in New-York is in favor of blowing up the balloon wider, and wider, in hopes that by this inflation and ascension it may go out safe. It makes no difference to them whose heads are to be crushed in the fall. [Applause.] But, my friends, this is not all. They have yet another element, more powerful still. They have the element of the legion of office holders, contractors and Government employes. [Hisses and groans.] It is susceptible of mathematical demonstration, that there are more civilians to-day dependent upon the Government than there are soldiers in the army that has been raised by the Government for the last two years; that the army of office-holders and contractors, of Government employes, employed directly and indirectly, amount in the aggregate to over twelve hundred thousand persons. Now, my friends, that army of twelve hundred thousand persons, distributed throughout these twenty States, all of them working and toiling for the Administration, all of them in receipt of large incomes, can afford to expend it for political purposes. When you come to reflect seriously upon the fact that twelve hundred thousand persons being mingled with all communities, industrious and persevering, with an interest at stake, why, you have a powerful element in favor of a patriotic and vigorous prosecution of the war. [Applause.] Then we have the Administration—[hisses and groans]—we have the President—[groans]—and the Cabinet, who think they see in the continuance of this war reëlection and retention in office, if not for another term, if they would dare to try it on, for a lifetime. And the whole is a power, a great power, a power which, my friends, subverted the elective franchise in our glorious little State of Connecticut yesterday. [Applause.] Then, we have another class, who have been tired of waiting in the Democratic party for their time, who call themselves War Democrats—[applause, hisses and groans]—men who think they see in this great combination to sustain the Administration an opening for political preferment and of official position—men who have, some of them, grown gray in the Democratic party who have been the recipients of our favors, and whom we have petted and applauded in this hall—these men, in an evil hour for themselves and for their own reputation, sold themselves for less than a mess of pottage. [Applause.] Then again we have the Abolitionists [hisses and groans]—men who always hated the South, and who are for the war because Slavery exists, and who will be for the war so long as Slavery exists, and so long as there is a slaveholder to punish. And, my friends, need we be surprised under all these circumstances, if this powerful combination, all from different motives, operating to act upon one centre—need we be surprised that the men of our opinion should be calumniated, should be persecuted, should be opposed and crushed out when we have nothing to stand upon except our God, our country and our consciences. [Great applause.] My friends, this power that we are to resist is stupendous, but as great as is that power, the majesty of this free and independent people is twenty times greater. ["Good," and applause.] And there are no selfish interests, no selfish combinations, that can put down the American people, and, therefore, let us stand by our cause; let us stand by it as we would our heart's blood; let us give property, liberty, life, everything except the glorious cause of our country, and that we will maintain though the heavens fall. [Applause.] Now, gentlemen, what is our position? As I understand the position of the Democratic party—as I understand my own position, and I only speak for myself—I stand upon this rock—the Constitution, the rights of the States, and the rights of the people. [Great applause.] That is my platform, and, if that is treason, let them make the most of it. [Applause.] We have read the Constitution—it is a document clearly expressed, and easily understood. We know the history of free Government upon this continent. As early as 1643 was established the first Confederacy on the American continent. The incursions of the Indians, and some slight misunderstanding among themselves, induced some of the New-England Colonies as early as 1643 to establish a Confederacy for mutual protection. That Confederacy—a fact that is not generally known, and to which I have not seen referred—the original Confederacy established in 1643, existed forty years on the continent, and comprised Massachusetts, Connecticut, and some territory which now comprises Vermont, Maine and Rhode Island, with a portion of our own State. In that Confederacy, which was a league for exterior protection, no local right was yielded. Again in 1756 another Confederacy or League was established, which comprised all the New-England States, and took in New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. That was a league for the regulation of internal taxation. Subsequently, in 1756, another Convention was called in this State for the purpose of forming a league among these States, offensive and defensive. Then we come down to the American Revolution—the Declaration of Independence in 1776—the articles of confederation formed during the Revolutionary War. And let me stop here to tell you, my friends, that during the seven years' war of the American Revolution, when we were struggling here for our independence—when every city was full of armed rebels, and supplies for the British Government—when nearly all the moneyed interests and great commercial interests, except a little, in New-York, Boston and Philadelphia, were in the hands of English merchants, yet the Federal Congress at that time did not find it necessary to pass conscription bills and bills of that character. [Applause.] The several Congresses that convened during the seven years' war of the American Revolution at no time thought of, much less attempted any act as a war measure, that infringed upon the rights of the States or the rights of the people thereof. [Applause.] Now, I say that, if under the then existing circumstances, the whole population being only two millions and a half, with all the wealth, and commerce and trade and property interests in the country in the hands of England, and the agents of England—if at that time, with a powerful enemy in arms in the midst of our own population, the American Government as then existing, did not see proper to resort to these extraordinary measures, I say that the pretext for doing it now means to conquer the free North and not to conquer the slave South. [Applause.] Well, we come then down, after the articles of Confederation were tried and found deficient for many purposes—after having been recognized by the mother country, we became a Power among the nations of the earth, and we wanted to have ambassadors accredited to the Courts of Europe; we wanted a commerce and a navy, and hence we wanted a Government upon a different plan; and a Convention was called—for what? To make a more perfect Government. That Convention was called in 1787, and met in the City of Philadelphia, to frame the Constitution of the United States. GEORGE WASHINGTON was President of that Convention. [Applause.] It was the most august assemblage of men that ever convened for any civil or religious purpose—every man a statesman, every man a patriot. They sat there with closed doors. They discussed all these great questions, and even the Abolition question itself was discussed, and acted upon, and compromised by that Convention. They finally adopted a Constitution. Well, my friends, what did they do then? Did they adjourn, setting forth this Constitution as the law of the land—as the fundamental, organic form of Government to govern us? No. They submitted it to the people of the several States for their ratification and confirmation. [A Voice—"Good."] What did the people do? The people received the Constitution. There were certain home rights which were not sufficiently clearly expressed. They were fearful that there might be hidden somewhere in the bosom of that instrument something that would detract from the rights of the States and of the people, and, therefore, they demanded, as a condition precedent, before they would ratify the Constitution, that certain amendments should be incorporated in the instrument and become part and parcel of the Constitution itself. What were these amendments? One was that our houses, and our papers, and our persons should be exempt from seizure. [Applause.] Another amendment was the right of the people to peaceably assemble. [Applause.] Another was that all the powers not directly delegated, not directly expressed in the Constitution, should be reserved to the States, and to the people thereof. [Applause.] Now, my friends, each of these amendments, which are part and parcel of the Constitution, have been shamefully and grossly violated by this Administration. ["That's so."] Our persons have been seized; our papers have been seized; we have been taken from our beds and families at dead of night; we have been incarcerated in dungeons; we have been denied to be confronted by our accusers; we have had no charges preferred against us, either political or criminal; and, finally, after our healths were destroyed, our occupations abandoned, and all the injury that men can suffer had been inflicted upon us, we have been dismissed without knowing what the accusation was, or without any chance of redress. [Applause.] And as to the peaceable assemblage of the people, why, but the other day in Kentucky, a Convention of men as true to the Government as ever lived—of men who made an assembly for the purpose of protecting their interest and expressing their sentiments—in marches an agent of the Government, in the garb of an officer, which he disgraced, into the assemblage to disperse them as a band of traitors. And I need not detain you by reference to instances with which you are familiar. I could almost say with propriety that the whole history of this Administration has been more a war of aggression upon the Constitution and the rights of the people of the North, than it has been powerful to do any injury to the people of the South. [Applause.] Gentlemen, we stand on this instrument—we intend to maintain this instrument. [Applause.] We shall live by the Constitution, and if it be good to live by, it is good to die by. ["That's so," and applause. Three cheers were given for FERNANDO WOOD.] Gentlemen, we are in a war. I was, among others, in my official capacity—as Mayor of the City—at the commencement of this war, two years ago, I did discharge what I conceived to be my duty at the time, under the bold declaration of the Administration that an army was necessary to restore this Union and protect the capital. I was in favor of protecting the capital and of protecting the Union. I did not conceive, nor do I now conceive that the South had any moral right to secede under the circumstances. She participated in the Presidential election; every Southern State, including South Carolina, voted for a candidate for the Presidency at the last Presidential election. Now I hold that if the South had determined upon secession that was not the time to do it. She had ventured to throw her interests and representation into that election and she lost, and she was bound by all the principles of morality and honor not to have seceded until she had given timely notice. [A Voice—"True," and applause.] I wont stop here to discuss the question as to the rights of one, two or twenty States to secede from the Union. The South claims that she has the right under the Constitution to secede—the South claims that she has the legal right to secede, but I say, admitting that she had, that having participated in the Presidential election, in which she lost, and we lost, she was in honor bound to stand by the result, although that result was the election of ABRAHAM LINCOLN. [Hisses.] Therefore I say this, because I want my principles clearly and distinctly understood. I am speaking here for myself, for no party and no section of a party. The sentiments I utter to-night are the individual sentiments of the speaker, and I ask no man to indorse them if he don't concur in them. [Applause.] I have never, and I do not now—and I desire to be correctly reported and correctly stated—I have never, and do not now, justify the action of the South. ["Bravo."] I go further—I say that I never have at any time—and I defy a man to produce evidence to the contrary—I have never declared a sentiment in favor of any course toward the South, except to bring the South back again into the Union. [Applause.] I am opposed to a separation of these States. [Applause.] I am opposed to a recognition of any Southern Confederacy. [Applause. But I am also opposed to the equally base and oppressive conduct of an Administration which, in my judgment, is far beneath the Administration of the Southern Confederacy. [Deafening and prolonged applause.] Well, my friends, the war went on; the whole American people appeared to rush to the support of the Administration at its origin. We gave them money without stint, we gave them all the men they asked for, and more too. And we have gone on sustaining this Administration—going it blind in its support. [Applause and laughter.] And when we have dared to question its infallibility, when we have dared to exercise these constitutional rights to which I have referred, to criticise the acts of our own servants, and agents into whose nostrils we had breathed the breath of official life, we were called, forsooth, rebels and traitors. [A Voice—"Copperheads."] And when I, who sent one whole regiment to the war, ["Bully;"] I, who paid more dollars than these patriots had paid cents; I, in whose veins runs blood of Revolutionary ancestors—to be called traitor because I dared be independent and manly. ["Good."] Ah! my friends, these words have sent me into this fight, and I will never let go of their traitorous throats until they are out of office. [Tremendous applause, stamping, shouting, and three cheers.] Now, my friends, I am for peace. I hold that the war, under this Administration, has proved a failure. ["That's so."] In the language of your resolutions, this Administration would not conquer the South if they could, and could not if they would. [Applause and laughter.] I repeat here what I have said upon a previous occasion, that on the 12th day of December last, propositions were submitted to the President of the United States which would have settled this controversy to the satisfaction of the people North and South before the 1st of April. [A Voice—"What were they?"] I said at the same time, and I said subsequently in the public newspapers, that I was only precluded from giving the information in my possession by a request of confidential secrecy by one of the chief officers of the Government; and I have been waiting, my friends—my statement was made under my own signature, now six weeks ago, in a leading Republican paper in this City—I have been waiting and looking for some authorized denial of my statement, so that I might produce the document, if they dare deny it. ["Good," and applause.] It has not been denied. It has not been denied, because they cannot deny it. [Applause.] Now I hold that argument and speculation as to the intention of this Administration is unnecessary. I hold it is unnecessary for me to go over the history of this war, and to show a designed failure here and a designed subterfuge there—I hold it is unnecessary for me, under the circumstances, to detain you by proving, as I can prove, to the satisfaction of any unprejudiced man, by recapitulating the history of this Administration in the legislative department of its history, in the history of it in its military department, in the history of it in its naval department, in the history of it in its Chief Executive department—that they never have desired, that they never have wished for the return of the Southern States to this Union. [Applause. ["That's so."] I say it is unnecessary for me to attempt to prove it by these facts, because I have the documents to prove it. [Applause and "Good."] Now, my friends, I am in favor of the settlement of this controversy, and I am not one of the men who say it is the policy of the Democratic party to find fault. When I am asked what I would do, (it is a very proper question,) I hold that I am bound to say what I would do. I am not one of those who believe that the Democratic party must smuggle themselves into power by criticising and denouncing the acts of this Administration. I hold that as right men it is due to you, it is due to myself, that when we hold these men up to public castigation, and say that this policy is wrong and that policy is right—I hold that it is our duty to bring forward a programme, and not smuggle ourselves into office by fault-finding with those who are in the office. [Applause.] Therefore, when I have been asked, as you have asked, what the Democratic party would do if they were in power, I am prepared to answer the question. I say that what the Democratic party would do were they in office, or what they will do when they obtain office, depends very much indeed upon the men that the Democratic party select as their candidate for the Presidency. ["Bully!"] If the Democratic party shall select a War Democrat, [hisses,] there will be no change of policy. A War Democrat—a man who proclaims himself a Democrat and then is elected President of the United States upon a war platform—must necessarily carry out a war programme; and if he carries out a war programme, why, what difference will there be between that man pursuing a policy of a vigorous prosecution of the war, and the man who now is pursuing a vigorous prosecution. [Applause.] I hold, therefore, that if the War Democrats, or if our Democratic National Convention adopts a war platform, and if they place upon that platform a War Democrat, and elect him to office, the only difference will be one set of men to steal instead of the other. [Laughter and applause.] These new War Democrats will come in more hungry than those lazy, fat rascals who are now hanging round. [Applause and laughter.] And instead of two thousand millions of dollars to be owed at the end, in four years it will be twenty times as much, because Democrats can outsteal any other class of men. [Applause and laughter.] Now, I say, there must be a change of policy; we must have not only a change of men, but a change of measures; we must not only put the War Republicans out of office, but we must keep the War Democrats out of office. [Applause and "Good."] I am for peace, and if my friends of the Democratic party shall elect, and I have no doubt they will, a successor to the present incumbent, an independent man, one of correct principles, all will be well. [Applause.] Now, I will tell you what, in my judgment, he should do. In my opinion, the President of the United States should seek either directly and openly, or indirectly and covertly, officially or inofficially, and meet for a conference. I believe that there should be a cessation of hostilities. War having failed, a reunion further off to-day than it was two years ago, and getting further off every day. ["That's so."] The war policy having failed, in my judgment the Democratic party and its race for the Presidency should take the policy of conciliation—[applause]—that a conference should be obtained. I know that that conference could have been obtained two months ago. A conference can be obtained; that conference might result in negotiations; these negotiations in a convention, in which all the States would be represented, and that convention in the reconstruction of the American Union. [Great applause.] I am answered as I am daily—"Ah! Yes, Sir—yes, Sir," they say; "but read the Southern papers." "They will defy us," I am told; "They won't come back," I am told; "They will spurn your offers," I am told. Ah! my friends, who dare say that? I refer to the Southern papers. Why, we in New-York, who know how well the newspapers represent public opinion, cannot be fooled in that way. [Applause.] We, who find every newspaper in the City of New-York against the Democratic party, find ourselves with our twenty and thirty and forty thousand Democratic majority in the City of New-York, [applause;] and, with one or two exceptions, I have never yet been elected to office in the City of New-York—and I have been elected many and many a time—but that I had the combined Press against me, [applause,] and therefore what newspapers say is no indication of what the people think, [applause, and "Good;"] and what the Richmond Inquirer may say, or what the Press of the Southern States may say, that are under the espionage of the Government, that dare not utter any other sentiments than what the Government of the South may dictate, precisely as the Republican Press of New-York dare not utter any other sentiments than our Government dictates; [applause, and "That's so"]—so I say it is no indication of Southern sentiment or Southern opinion. Besides, my friends, the Almighty, in the infinitude of His wisdom, has His own way of working out the fate of things. Who dare say, after these two years of trial and of travail, this volume of bloodshed, all these horrors of which we have heard, and of which we read—who dare say that the Almighty has not adopted this course for our punishment and our chastening? Finding us her the finest climate in the world, the finest physical and geographical resources of any people in the world, teeming with plenty—regardless as we were of all these blessings and all these favors—who dare say that the Almighty has not made an interregnum in our prosperity by laying His heavy hand upon us as a punishment? Ah, my friends, the Almighty has His own way of working out these great national problems; and, therefore, notwithstanding the military array, notwithstanding the deadly hostility existing between these two peoples at this day, I believe that His Almighty hand will allay these surging billows of wrath. [Applause.] But, gentlemen, suppose it so; suppose that after this conference, after these negotiations, after this Convention the South say, We demand recognition, and nothing less? Well, now, my friends, if it should come to that—if, in an evil hour for this country, and for human progress, and for the cause of human liberty throughout the world—if, under these circumstances, the South should assume that decision, and consent to treat only by the recognition of Southern independence—I will tell you then what, in my judgment, the President of the United States should do: he should submit a course, or at least a proposition, that the people should be called upon to vote directly upon the question, and that the decision should be final, then and forever, whether they would resume the war, or recognize the independence of the South. [Applause.] That is my peace programme. ["That is a good one," and applause.] I am willing to go with the people, and if, after this war of two years, and if we wait for two years longer, then, after this war of four years, we wait for his negotiation, assuming that both sides are thoroughly exhausted by that time—we are exhausted already—then, after these conferences, and negotiations, and conventions, if, then, the South, as, in my judgment, she would not do, were to persist in her opposition, and this question were submitted to the masses, and the people, the ballot, left to determine it, every man suffered to vote upon the question, aye or no, fight or recognize, why, as a majority of ballots were cast upon that question that, in my humble judgment, the President should be bound by, be it recognition or be it war. [Applause. "Good."]

Gentlemen, I have detained you longer than I intended; ["Go on;"] there are other gentlemen, and, I believe, one and all, very distinguished gentlemen, who will address you after myself. I did not design to-night, to be the first speaker. We have in the City a very distinguished Senator from Virginia. [Applause.] Mr. CARLILE. I had intended to have presented him to you. He is a stranger among you. As is courteous and correct, I designed giving him an opportunity to speak on this occasion. He is now behind me, and I take the liberty to present him to you. [Applause, and three cheers for Senator CARLILE.]

SPEECH OF HON. JOHN S. CARLILE.

Mr. CARLILE, after having been introduced by Mr. WOOD, was received with cheers. He addressed his audience as gentlemen, saying that he would have called them fellow-citizens had it not crossed his mind that, by declaration of one of the Administration agents in the City a few nights ago, he found himself in a foreign land. He, after having suffered more for the Union than any or all of those who had outlawed so many citizens, was now declared a foreigner, because he came from Virginia—an announcement which was received with groans. He then proceeded to speak at length on the condition and prospects of the country, dwelling mainly upon the conduct of the war by the Administration, which we have not space at command to give at length. He denied the right of the Administration to make war upon a State, and claimed that if it had confined itself to putting down individual rebels, the State of Virginia, which had never gone out of the Union, could have taken care of itself. He also believed that the present Administration was not prosecuting the war with a view to the restoration of the Union, but, like JEFFERSON DAVIS, simply for a dividing boundary line—an opinion with which some of the audience coincided. And, in conclusion, he was in favor of New-York rising in her majesty, and inducing the Administration to act with a view to the attainment of the objects for which it was declared the war was commenced, two years ago. It was, in his opinion, an unconstitutional war, for it had been carried on for the purpose of destroying a large property interest in a large portion of the country, instead of giving security to property, as the Constitution designed the Government should do. He would have this "unholy war upon helpless women and children stopped, and, his word for it, peace and the Union as it was, and the Constitution as it is, would soon be restored." If not, they (his audience) would find that, if carried on to destroy Slavery, they could only succeed by exterminating the South and enslaving themselves. In such a cause our flag had been dishonored, and he would have them restore it to the position it was intended to hold, namely, the emblem of protection to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

When the speaker had concluded, he was again loudly applauded, and then Mr. WILLIAMS was announced, with three cheers for South Carolina.

Hon. J. W. WILLIAMS, of South Carolina, who stated that he had an interview with the President, but in order to get it he had to threaten him with his gunboats. At that interview he learned that the sole object of the President was to checkmate the recognition of the Southern Confederacy in England. After alluding in general terms to the policy of the Administration, the speaker withdrew amid impatient calls for McCUNN and others.

Judge McCUNN spoke next. He said he had just come in from the meeting outside. He talked as long as he could, but he hadn't exhausted the subject yet. This was an occasion when every honest man should speak out his mind, and speak it out boldly. [Cheers.] If he had ever thought that Mr. LINCOLN's Administration was an Administration for the country, or that his Cabinet was endeavoring to save the country, he had changed his mind. He had learned, to his sorrow, that Mr. LINCOLN's Administration was an abolition administration out and out. [Cheers.] Judge McCUNN thought that the only way to close the war was by peace.

The Secretary next proceeded to read a letter from Senator WALL, of New-Jersey, but decided to defer reading the entire contents on account of its great length. At this point the meeting adjourned.

The Outside Meeting.

A platform had been erected in front of the hall, around which a large concourse assembled. Addresses were made by Judge THOMPSON, ISAIAH RYNDERS, JOHN VANLOON and others. The meeting was spirited, but of short duration, in consequence of the falling rain and snow.

READ AND REFLECT.

Make sure of HEALTH. "But how!" you ask;
We answer, 'tis an easy task.
Strengthen the STOMACH, and sustain
The NERVES, the centres of the brain.
The LIVER keep in active play
And regulate, from day to day.
Each organ aid, on Nature's plan,
Brace and inflate the INNER MAN,
And like a watch, that's kept in chime
By constant care, with railroad time,
The system's tone and strength renew,
And thereby cheer the spirits, too.
"How," you inquire, "can this be done?
This Victory o'er Disease be won?"
"HOSTETTER'S BITTERS," we reply,
IS HEALTH'S SUPREME PROTECTION—TRY!

As a means of regenerating the disordered and enfeebled system, regulating every function of the internal organs, reviving the depressed spirits, invigorating the constitution, and prolonging life, no medicinal preparation, either of the past or the present time, has been so completely and universally successful as HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Against the vapors foul prepare,
That fever-taint the heavy air.
Drink not unmixed the water found
In prairies, woods, or marshy ground.
If sedentary toil you ply,
Nature you must assist—or die—
For when debarred from exercise
For artificial aid she cries.
Medicine's grand purpose and intent
Is threatened evil to prevent:
If you'd be relieved or spared
From ills that crush the unprepared,
Hostetter's Bitters use—for note
They are the SUREST ANTIDOTE.

To set at defiance the miasma of unhealthy soils, the poison of unwholesome water, the effluvia of crowded workrooms and factories, and the baneful influence of sedentary employments, it is only necessary to be fortified with HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Dyspepsia's pangs, that rack and grind
The body, and depress the mind;
Agues, that as they go and come,
Make life a constant martyrdom;
Colics and dysenteric pains,
'Neath which the strong man's vigor wanes;
Billous complaints, those tedious ills,
Ne'er conquered yet by drastic pills;
Dread diarrhea [illegible]
Cured by destructive mercury;
Slow constitutional decay
That brings Death nearer, day by day;
Nervous prostration, mental gloom—
Heralds of madness or the tomb!
For these—though mineral nostrums fail—
Means of Relief at least we hail,
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS—medicine sure,
Not to prevent, alone, but cure.

In dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious complaints, constitutional and nervous debility, constipation, seasickness, spasms, and in all complaints of Man or Woman, proceeding from casual or inherent weakness of the body, the great remedy and restorative is HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

To wanderers on sea or land,
From Polar shore to Tropic strand;
To households lone, in regions new,
And dwellers in great cities, too;
To soldiers in camp, fort and field,
[illegible] a shield;
To miners, California bound,
And tillers of wet, marshy ground;
To feeble wives of fragile mold,
To young and middle-aged, and old;
To those in health, who would enjoy
Heaven's best gifts without alloy;
To all the strengthless, weak and pale,
Who droop, yet know not what they ail,
Hostetter's Bitters we commend
As Health's most potent element.

If there is any value in public opinion, or any weight in medical testimony, the very best and safest Tonic, Corrective and Alterative now before the world is HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Sold by respectable druggists in all parts of the world.
